Close To 6,000 Men Sail In Three Troopships To Join Pats At Front

By ROY THORSEN, Times Staff Reporter
SEATTLE.—Close to 6,000 fighting men of Canada have departed from the Seattle port of embarkation to join their battle-experienced comrades of the P.P.C.L.I. in the Korean war.

Except for music provided by the brass band of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, there was little fanfare for the troops as they embarked on three ships for the long sea journey to the war front.

The Canadian troops, under the command of Victoria's Brig. John M. (Rocky) Rockingham, bronzed from intensive training during recent hot, sunny weather in the state of Washington, were in fine spirits as they trooped aboard their ships.

They have been here for the last five months, and have practiced field firing on battle ranges, street and village fighting, and have been put through battle inoculation. All major units of the 25th Brigade have spent more than a month training in bivouac.

Major units that sailed are the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, commanded by Lt.-Col. R. A. Keane; Royal 22nd Regiment (the "Van Doos") commanded by Lt.-Col. J. A. Dextre; Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, commanded by Lt.-Col. A. J. Bailey of Duncan, V.I.

The brigade was formed last midsummer especially for the Korean campaign. About 40 per cent are veterans of the last World War, a large proportion of them being veterans of the rugged Italian campaign where terrain is somewhat similar to that they will encounter in the Korean fight.

Allies Launch Attack From Captured Dam

Reservoir Falls Without A Fight

TOKYO (AP)—Allied troops today launched a limited attack north of the newly-captured Hwachon power dam and reservoir on the east-central front in North Korea.

The Allies seized the big hydro-electric grid Wednesday after Reds who had defended it stubbornly for days slipped away to the north.

Thousands of Allied troops poured into the dam and reservoir area. United Nations riflemen struck north from Hwachon at the west end of the reservoir. They traded fire with an enemy group of undisclosed strength but later withdrew.

Chinese Reds pulled back along the central front in the mountainous area west of the reservoir.

Rain, smoke and haze made air observation impossible. But United Nations troops patrolled aggressively far ahead of their lines in those craggy heights without opposition.

RAIN SLOWS DRIVES

Heavy rain slowed the allied push on the western front.

Chinese mounted a company-sized counter-attack 10 miles inside Red Korea north of Yonchon.

Allied artillery and an Allied air strike threw back the attack. U.N. forces inched up the last hillcrest before Charwon, 17 air miles north of the border. Other Allied troops neared Chigyoung, southeast of Charwon and 16 air miles inside Red Korea.

There was no official explanation for the sudden Red pullback that permitted the Allies to take over the Hwachon Dam and reservoir.

Eight of the dam's 18 floodgates were open.

COLD SNAP ENDS QUICKLY

Weatherman Predicts Warm Weather Friday

Victoria's sudden cold snap should be abated by late tomorrow the weatherman advised today, on the heels of freezing temperatures in some Victoria areas this morning.

While the official low this morning was 36 degrees, fish ponds had a sheet of ice in some exposed areas. Frost was reported in many other low-lying areas.

The mercury had climbed to 49 today at noon, the wind had abated and skies were clear again.

Last night's chilly temperature was not a record for Victoria at this time of the year. Weather bureau records showed the mercury plummeted to 35 last April 22.

The cold wave was general throughout B.C. during the night. Vancouver had its coldest night last night in 15 years when a temperature of 26 was recorded. City firemen late Wednesday night and early today put out five chimney fires caused by high winds.

Air Force Plane Lost

PRESQUE ISLE, Me. (AP)—An R.C.A.F. plane of a group of eight vanished today on a practice flight from Chatham, N.B., to Ottawa, across northern Maine, state police reported.

WAR THREAT IMMINENT, RIDGWAY TELLS TROOPS

SENDAI, Japan (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations commander, today told American troops newly-arrived in Japan, "we stand under the imminent threat of war."

On his first inspection trip as supreme commander, Ridgway told a regiment of the newly-arrived 40th Division: "To all intents and purposes you're here in war."

"We stand under the imminent threat of war which can be unleashed at the time and place of choosing of other people."

MARATHON WON BY JAPANESE

BOSTON (AP)—Shigeki Tanaka, a thin 118-pound survivor of the Hiroshima atom bombing, raced to an easy victory today in the 26-mile, 385-yard Boston marathon.

Tanaka, with two fellow Japanese, had led the field from the half-way mark of the long grind. At that point, Shunji Koyanagi forged into a half-mile lead with Tanaka and Yoshitaka Uchikawa running neck and neck about 400 yards ahead of the rest of the field.

Tanaka subsequently pulled ahead and won going away.

Canada Wheat Stocks Soar

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's stocks of wheat, substantially higher than a year ago, totaled 352,822,423 bushels at March 31, the Bureau of Statistics reported today. This compared with 250,170,749 last year.

Of this amount 161,450,000 bushels were on Canadian farms, again sharply higher than last year's 112,000,000 bushels.

Holdings were greater for all coarse grains, with the exception of flaxseed which was lower.

Grain Elevator At Ponoka Burns

PONOKA, Alta. (CP)—A three-alarm fire destroyed 66,000 bushels of grain when the big twin elevator and annex of the Alberta-Wheat-Pool here was razed early today. Loss was estimated in excess of $200,000.

Ponoka's 25-man fire brigade fought the blaze in near zero weather and winds up to 35 miles per hour. Flames were prevented from spreading to the Alberta Pacific elevator, only 30 feet away.

Ruhr Workers To Help Run Plants

BONN (AP)—The West German Parliament's Upper House today passed a revolutionary law giving 500,000 workers in the Ruhr coal and steel industries an equal share in the running of their plants.

The law provides that boards of directors of plants with more than 1,000 employees shall have five representatives of management, five of labor and an 11th director to be elected by the other 10 or by arbitration.

Set Up Inquiry

Mr. Justice H. S. Wood of the Supreme Court has been named by the provincial cabinet to hold an investigation under the Public Inquiries Act in the case of the 18-year-old Vancouver woman who allegedly lost her baby because hospitals refused her admission.

Hope For Lives Of Submarine Men Abandoned But Search Continues

PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—The Admiralty tonight gave up hope of saving the 75 officers and men aboard the Royal Navy submarine Affray, lost since Tuesday in the English Channel.

An Admiralty statement said: "There is now no reasonable hope of the rescue of any survivors."

The King expressed "the heartfelt sympathy of the Queen and myself" for relatives of the lost men.

A rescue ship made contact today with an object which may be the Affray.

A diver was sent to the bottom to find out whether the object found by sound wave contact might be the submarine, which became stuck under 198 feet of water after a practice

More Loot Found As Total Climbs

New loot recovered following the arrest of a Saanich man believed to be the "cat burglar" and his brother, is worth several hundred dollars, according to a tentative estimate by Saanich police. This brings the total recovered to almost $6,000.

Phillip V. Russell, 3283 Seaton Road, has been charged with breaking, entering and theft and his brother, William Edward Russell, 3235 Shelbourne Street, with retaining.

Report Rebellion By Chinese Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist reports today said more than 1,000 Chinese Red Army recruits revolted March 25 and killed more than 400 Reds.

The recruits, reported en route to Korea, rebelled at Patpo, 125 miles north of Canton. They then joined Nationalist guerrilla forces.

Discuss Wages Of City Officials

Wage increases for senior officials at City Hall, not members of the City Hall Employees' Association, was referred by finance committee today to a special committee of three for report.

On the committee are City Manager Cecil Wyatt, Comptroller Henry Watson, and Solicitor Arthur Patton.

MacArthur Says Chiefs Of Staff Shared His Policies

Gets Tumultuous Welcome In Congress; Truman Absent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today his views on the Far East "have been fully shared by practically every military leader," including the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff.

This assertion by the deposed Far Eastern commander in an address to Congress brought a storm of applause with Republican members standing and cheering. MacArthur was interrupted for nearly a minute.

He had previously restated the four points of his strategic policy for the Orient:

1. An economic blockade of China.
2. A naval blockade of the China coast.
3. Removal of restrictions on aerial reconnaissance over China.
4. A removal of the restrictions on the ground forces of Nationalist China "with logistical support from us."

Would Supply Chiang's Men

This last point meant using the Nationalist troops of Chiang Kai-shek with the United States furnishing supplies.

MacArthur said of his policy "for this I have been severely criticized in many quarters, principally abroad." But, he said, he had never heard any criticism of these views from "responsible military authorities, including our own Joint Chiefs of Staff."

MacArthur said he had called for reinforcements in Korea but was informed they were not available. He said he had warned that unless permission was granted to bomb Manchurian bases, blockade the China coast and use Nationalist forces on Formosa the position of his command "forbade victory" in Korea.

Bluntly, MacArthur said the intervention of the Chinese

Communists in the Korean fighting had called for "realistic adjustment of military strategy and such decisions have not been forthcoming."

MacArthur said he was not consulted in advance on the sending of American troops into Korea, but the move "proved to be a sound one."

His voice rising in vibrancy, MacArthur told Congress "we could hold in Korea by constant manoeuvre . . . but we could hope at best for only an indecisive campaign."

Those who would appease Red China "are blind," MacArthur said.

He declared Russia would not necessarily mesh her power with Red China if the United Nations forces carried the war further. Any new enemy, he said, will strike only if it feels the balance is in her favor on a world scale.

Must Keep Reds From Formosa

He had declared earlier that Formosa must not be allowed to fall into enemy hands.

It is part of an island arc, he said, from which U.S. air and sea power can control the Pacific and maintain it as a protective "moat" for all the Americas.

MacArthur concluded with a recollection of the old soldier's motto "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away."

He said he was closing out 52 years of military service with that ballad in mind.

"I now close my military career and just fade away," he said dramatically. "An old soldier who tried to do his duty as God gave him the light to see that duty."

MacArthur's address lasted 36 minutes.

At the hour of the speech, President Truman was conferring in his office with Dean Acheson, State Secretary. It is routine for them to meet at 12.30 p.m. Thursdays.

Truman has held himself personally aloof from all the ceremonies here for the general.

The President sent his army aide, Maj.-Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, to represent him at an airport welcome to the general, and he gave authority for federal workers to leave their jobs and watch a MacArthur parade and welcome ceremony this afternoon. He also canceled a speech he had scheduled for this afternoon to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, explaining he did not wish to detract from "MacArthur's day."

Appeasement Steps Resisted

MacArthur argued that there can be no "appeasement" of Communism in Asia "without simultaneously undermining our efforts to halt it in Europe."

President Truman and other administration spokesmen have repeatedly said the United States would not engage in appeasement. Some U.S. allies—notably Britain—have suggested steps which MacArthur obviously regarded as appeasement, including turning over Formosa to China, now in Nationalist hands.

The Communist threat is a global one, he declared, and added:

"We can't divide our effort."

In effect, this was a direct challenge to the Truman administration's position that Europe must be the place where the United States will concentrate its efforts against Communism.

It was MacArthur's disagreement with this view—his contention that greater efforts must be put into the Korean war—that led President Truman to dismiss him from his Far Eastern commands eight days ago and brought the general back to this country.

The general was given a swelling, three-minute ovation when he came into the chamber of the House of Representatives before a joint meeting of the House and Senate. He wore a field uniform and no medals.

At the outset, MacArthur said it was with a sense of deep hu-

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

WHALE MEAT AND PEANUT OIL

I CAME across a collection of the poems of Louis Untermeyer a week or so ago and his lines entitled "Food and Drink caught my eye—perhaps because poets don't often wax lyrical about anything so prosaic. And one verse of it went like this:

"Why has our poetry eschewed
The rapture and response of food?
What hymns are sung, what praises said
For miracles of home-made bread?"

Now while nobody likes home-made bread—made by somebody else, that is—more than I, I have no intention of getting poetic about its miracles and those qualities which make it so more-ish. I merely quote that verse as an introduction to a dissertation about somebody else's reactions and responses to newish—and nauseous-sounding—foods.

LIKE ROAST BEEF

TAKE, for example—although if you feel as I do you will probably leave it alone—the whale meat experiment conducted in Newark, New Jersey. According to an Associated Press report, 1,000 employees of the Bell Telephone Company of that city had been served a pot roast made of whale meat in the plant cafeteria.

As the news dispatch had been considerably curtailed owing to space restrictions in the paper in which I read it, I am not clear as to why this particular company chose that particular dish. It may have been because the price of meat has gone so high that even telephone employees can't afford it—or it may have been the company's idea of giving their hired help a whale of a time.

WHALE OF A SUCCESS

BUT, WHATEVER the reason for the repast, most of the diners said the stuff "tasted like roast beef," thus signifying they enjoyed it. Evidently the experiment was such a whale of a success that there is now talk of serving "whale-burgers" in the plant cafeteria.

Now I never have had to eat whale meat and my knowledge of it is strictly vicarious. But I recall seeing some in captivity while in Vancouver a few years ago, and feeling rather revolted by the sight. And, at the time it was being served in Britain when it was one of the few off-ration edibles, I received a letter from a friend who gave me her rather pungent views on this pungent subject.

VITAMINS AND 'VITLES'

ALTHOUGH the British government had tried to encourage its consumption by listing all the vitamins and what-not of the new "vitles," she had been unable to stomach it, even when disguised as Spanish steak and smothered with onions. Not even the onions were strong enough to offset its own offensive odor, she declared.

It may be, of course, that the Bell Telephone Company have since discovered some way of deodorizing the whale meat for their cafeteria. But, even so, it seems to me that any assertion that it tastes like roast beef arouses speculation as to whether the beef cattle in that part of the United States subsist on fish for fodder? Or is cooked in ambergris?

PEANUTS AND PEP

AND NOW, from the Harvard School of Public Health, Boston, Mass., a nutritionist has been ululating on the pep-producing properties of a new drink made out of peanut oil. It is claimed that, when homogenized like milk, one pint equals 1,000 calories and will set up a man for a day. It is also said that one glass of the stuff will give sick people as much weight as three pieces of pie with ice cream.

That may be. But what person in his or her health and senses would forego the gustatory delights of three pieces of pie a la mode for a glass of peanut oil? Even I, nobly sacrificing pie on the altar of reduction, would rather be reduced to a glass of water plus a caraway seed than either whale meat or peanut oil.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, reported Gen. Douglas MacArthur said this to him on his arrival at National Airport:

"Hello, general, glad to see you."

Newsmen did not catch the exchange because of the noise.

Labor Still To Oppose Increase In Power Rate

Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night took no action to change its stand opposing increased power rates, following an appearance by W. C. Mainwaring, Vancouver, vice-president of the B.C. Electric, in which he outlined the company's reasons for higher scales. Mr. Mainwaring's talk prompted a lively meeting.

In a prepared 30-minute address, with illustrations, Mr. Mainwaring presented the company's side of the picture, followed by a "question period."

Oak Bay Tax Rates Boosted By Single Mill

Oak Bay ratepayers will pay a 1951 rate of 45 mills, council announced Wednesday night. This is a one-mill boost over 1950.

The extra mill will represent $10,373.44 to help meet a budget of $885,364. Officials said the 45-mill levy would bring in $466,430. Salary boosts and increased school costs had brought earlier fears the rate would advance much more, and finance committee chairman, R. B. Wilson, said the mill-rate had been held down by keeping capital expenditures to a minimum.

Detwiler Says Public Must Change Outlook

Only Hopeful Co-Insurance Plan Will Prove Successful

B.C.'s hospital insurance commissioner hopes the co-insurance plan will haul the service out of the red but he believes only a change in the psychological outlook of the public will assure success of the scheme.

"On a rough analysis of the figures we have seen for the first 10 days of co-insurance it would appear that we are really going to cut down the average length of hospital treatment," Lloyd Detwiler told the Victoria Real Estate Board Wednesday. He added that if every patient spent a day less in hospital the fund would save $2,000,000 a year.

If the public looked on insurance as something from which they must get their full value, there will always be difficulties, the youthful commissioner said. "On the other hand if there is a change of attitude to regard the premium as a protection against crippling hospital fees all will be well," he said.

Asked about the services $6.50 a day 30-day limit on payment of bills outside B.C., Mr. Detwiler said the fee was based on the daily ward charge at most smaller hospitals in B.C.

"We could not afford to pay the full bills incurred outside the province," he said. "If we did we might have our in-

FRIEND OF LABOR

Declaring his company was the best friend of organized labor in B.C., Mr. Mainwaring said: "Instead of protesting, I say this council should be in the advance guard, helping us to make our case."

Mr. Mainwaring concerned himself mostly with explaining how his company was burdened with increased labor and material costs.

"The amazing thing is, we have gone 11 years of increasing costs without asking for an increase in electric rates before now," he said.

Mr. Mainwaring explained profit from electric power sale was being used to subsidize bus service in both Victoria and Vancouver. Last year this phase of operation produced a $1,500,000 deficit.

One council delegate shouted from his seat that if such were the case, the company should get rid of its transportation business.

"Would you like to buy it?" Mr. Mainwaring shot back. Lester Melnyk said B.C. Electric had been quick to make a "million-dollar deal" with the Blue Line Company, which had previously operated in competition.

Mr. Mainwaring was angered by Mr. Melnyk's suggestion of a million-dollar deal.

"Please don't make silly, ridiculous statements," he declared. "We paid $500,000 for it (the Blue Line). I know, as I signed the contract."

A. P. Payment asked why the B.C. Electric had not taken an opportunity afforded it five years ago to let go of its transportation business.

Mr. Mainwaring's answer was that five years ago the company had thought it could break even if it converted its street-car operation to buses.

He pointed out the company had a great investment in equipment.

Nehru Says No Peace Talks Seen From MacArthur Ouster, Red Note

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, a leader in efforts to end hostilities in Korea, said today he has no information indicating the possibility of early peace talks.

He was commenting in an interview on reports from United Nations headquarters in New York that hopes for peace talks had been aroused by President Truman's dismissal of Gen.

Douglas MacArthur as Supreme Commander in the Pacific.

Some sources have said the dismissal might have been an indication of American willingness to sit down at a conference table with Red China, but Nehru said: "We have no such information."

"I believe those reports from Lake Success are based entirely upon the North Korean note to the United Nations," he added.

RAISED HOPES

The latest North Korean note demanded a peace settlement, and raised some hopes among the Asian-bloc nations, heading the conciliation efforts because the message left out demands concerning Chinese U.N. membership and the Red Chinese claim to Formosa.

The U.S. State Department has dismissed the note as a repetition of its previous stand and a propaganda device.

"When we feel we can help, we are willing to do so," Nehru said, adding that the Indian government is in close touch both with U.N. headquarters and the Red Chinese capital at Peking. But he indicated he has found no sign thus far that the time is near for an attempt toward a negotiated peace in Korea.

(Earlier, K. M. Panikar, Indian Ambassador to Peking, said conditions do not favor a new Indian attempt to mediate the Korean war.)

(He said that India has made no new peace approach to Red China, and that a sounding of opinion there indicates that none would be advisable.)

NO PROSECUTION AGAINST SCOTS WHO SWIPED STONE

LONDON (AP)—Scots who swiped Britain's Coronation Stone of Stone, committed "a vulgar act of vandalism," Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcross said today, but he told the House of Commons he won't have anybody arrested for it.

The stone, upon which Britain's Kings have been crowned for centuries, was turned over to a church caretaker in Arbroath, Scotland, by unidentified Scots about a week ago. It had been the object of a country-wide search since it was stolen from Westminster Abbey 107 days before.

Shawcross said three or four ardent Scottish Nationalists linked to the spectacular theft have admitted their implication, but he said he did not think the public interest required direct criminal proceedings.

'READY FOR ACTION'

Victorian Is 'Glad' Force Is Moving Off

By ROY THORSEN
Times Staff Writer

FORT LEWIS, Wash.—"We've been here a long time and I'm glad we are finally moving to a place where there is more action," said Sgt. Fred Allen, Victoria member of the R.C.E.M.E. of the Canadian Army Special Force which is Korea-bound. Fred, former secretary of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association, has been in Fort Lewis since the Canadian Army Force was first organized and moved to U.S. soil.

During the last few days the Canadians have been keeping telegraph and telephone wires busy conveying messages to wives, parents and girl friends from Victoria to Newfoundland.

"Please give my best regards to all my friends in Victoria," asked Capt. Bob Hemmingson, 2nd Royal Canadian Heavy Artillery Regt., whose wife lives on Basil Avenue.

There is a fine spirit among the Canadian troops. In an interview Wednesday, Brig. John Rockingham said: "My troops are ready for anything. I've got the greatest confidence that they will uphold the fighting traditions of the Canadian Army as shown in the records of two world wars."

Case Against Seaway Plan Given House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway would necessitate deepening of Great Lakes harbors and the additional cost would be enormous, Congress was told today.

R. G. Breene of Dayton, O., a consulting engineer for the St. Lawrence project conference which opposes the Seaway, testified before the House of Representatives Public Works Committee.

"Without harbors on the Great Lakes usable by the traffic on the (seaway), there can, of course, be no benefits," Breene said.

Comparing his estimates with those made by the army engineers for the harbors at Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago, Breene said this involved deepening of the entire harbors—not just entrance channels and turning basins.

U.S. To Negotiate Arrangements; Australia Hails Announcement

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has laid down a three-point "program of action" designed to combat Communism in Asia and protect the Pacific islands.

The plan was outlined Wednesday by President Truman. In filling in detail Wednesday night, State Secretary Dean Acheson urged "a steadfast course in Korea" and rejected any idea of extending the conflict there.

Man Who Slew Five Of Family Hangs Himself

WINNIPEG (CP)—John Henry Schmidt, 31-year-old farmer charged with the Saturday night slaying of five members of his family at Graysville, Man., hanged himself early today in Headingly jail, police announced.

Police said Schmidt hanged himself with his belt at 1:35 a.m., five minutes after the regular cell check made by a constable. They said no note was left.

Schmidt had surrendered himself to R.C.M.P. last Saturday at Carman, Man. His mother, father, two sisters and a brother were found shot to death at their farm home in the Graysville district 12 miles west of Carman, which is 40 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

Police said a post-mortem may be held later today. They said no inquest date has been set yet. Schmidt apparently hanged himself quietly, they said, because prisoners next to him reported no noise. The belt was looped on cross-bars in the door of the cell and his head inserted through the loop formed at the buckle end. They said his knees were barely off the floor.

INFANT IMPROVES AFTER TRANSFUSION ORDERED

CHICAGO (AP)—Physicians reported improvement today in the condition of eight-day-old Cheryl Lynn Labrenz after a blood transfusion ordered by her parents and given after court action.

The child is suffering from a blood condition caused by the incompatibility of blood types of her parents. Sixty centimetres of blood were injected into her system yesterday.

The parents, Darrel Labrenz, 25, and Rhoda, 20, are Jehovah's Witnesses. From the time of the child's birth they refused to approve transfusions on religious grounds. They maintained such treatment violated their interpretation of a Biblical injunction against "eating blood."

Bradley And MacArthur

THE CONSTITUTIONAL REASONS for General MacArthur's dismissal need no explanation since they are inherent in a Constitution which makes military commanders subject to the command of the President. The military reasons are now supplied by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the United States' top military commander.

General Bradley's statement shows, in the first place, that President Truman was supported by his highest military advisers in removing General MacArthur, who had lost not only the confidence of the Government but the support of his senior military colleagues. This fact, as revealed by General Bradley, shatters the argument of those Republicans who have contended that the President, a civilian, is trying to enforce a policy against the considered opinion of his military experts. General Bradley and General Marshall, soldiers as eminent as General MacArthur, believe that his activities in Asia are a military, as assuredly they are a constitutional, error.

General Bradley says bluntly that General MacArthur's policy of extending the Korean war would "jeopardize world peace." He says that any attempt to settle the world crisis by an American ultimatum, backed by the threat of the atomic bomb, is militarily impracticable. Yet such an ultimatum and such a threat are implicit in the MacArthur policy of extending the war to China at the risk of Russian intervention.

General Bradley's warning that an ultimatum to Russia is militarily impracticable comes from a man as well equipped as any soldier in the western world to judge the relative strength of Russia and the west. In the event of war he would have to supply the American divisions on two fronts when the United States at the moment is hard pressed to maintain a relatively small war in Korea and provide six divisions in Europe.

In short, General Bradley knows that the United States and its allies are far from readiness for war. They have not reached the point where, as Mr. Acheson says, they can bargain from equal strength. Until then they can afford to stand on their present line, as they are standing in Korea, without appeasement, but they cannot afford to precipitate a general war if it can be avoided without fatal concessions.

General Bradley puts his finger on the real issue raised not by General MacArthur but by his friends. That issue is misleadingly called "preventive war," as if the launching of a war could prevent it. The United States, says General Bradley, will not wage a preventive war. This assurance should not be necessary but, coming from the nation's chief soldier, it will be welcomed by foreigners who have been alarmed by the wild statements of some politicians and journalists.

The moral argument against a "preventive war" is so overwhelming as to require no confirmation in military strategy, since the nation which commits such an outrage would earn and deserve the revulsion of the world. But if the moral argument is ignored, if the political effects are dismissed as unimportant, the strategic calculations against such a course are decisive for such a soldier as General Bradley. He knows that the Western world is neither willing nor militarily prepared to plunge unnecessarily into war against an enemy of superior immediate strength.

It does not follow, of course, that total war can be avoided, even for another year. The prospect of a Chinese offensive in Korea, a United States reverse and then an unavoidable American attack on China, is already clear. If that happens, and Russia comes to China's aid as it is bound to do by treaty, total war could follow by midsummer. That, however, if it happened—and it need not happen if the United Nations can hold their ground in Korea—would not prove General Bradley wrong.

He is right in trying to the last to avoid what might be the destruction of civilization. He is right also in believing that if this trial must be faced the responsibility for provoking it should be placed clearly on our enemy. Thus, and thus only, could the world see that the United States was innocent of history's final crime—and the United States needs for its own survival the confidence of the world.

Flood Of Support, Trickle Of Aid

ANY CHARITABLE ENTERPRISE which is operated in such a manner as to cast doubt on its sincerity and value contains a three-fold evil. It brings discredit upon itself, obviously. But worse still, it raises doubts regarding past charitable enterprises and threatens to discourage support for future worthy projects.

Revelations regarding the United Emergency Fund for Britain, recently publicized by The Financial Post, may entail all three results. According to the report, the U.E.F.B., which began as an organization for the purchase and delivery of food and clothing for Britons, financed by public subscriptions, gradually switched its operations to become merely a clearing house for parcels provided by others. Along with this, it carried on large-scale publicity campaigns concerned with the provision of aid for Britain.

But the startling fact—as shown by U.E.F.B. financial statements—is that whereas some $394,000 was collected through donations and grants, the amount spent on food for Britain totalled only $880.

Two parcel services appear to have been run at a profit—the public being charged more than private purchases and Post Office costs would have been. The bulk of the revenues went into organization and publicity. The head of the organization received no salary. But in an 18-month period he drew $16,000 in expenses and a $6,500 honorarium. A publicity agency operated by him received about $83,000 from the Fund for advertising. Salaries of the promotional and administrative staff totalled $185,000. Advertising and publicity cost $188,000. Traveling expenses were more than $78,000. Office operation cost $75,000. And in addition there were various branch offices which used up $128,000.

On such a scale were the contributions of citizens, business firms, organizations and school children administered. The Britons got $880 worth of food.

The Government of Ontario is now carrying out a full investigation of the whole operation. Legislation to control such appeals to public charity may be instigated. And that such controls are necessary may be judged from the fact that some of the officials involved in U.E.F.B. are now organizing another similar venture called British Goodwill Service, for the delivery of food parcels to the United Kingdom. The public, and all future drives, must be protected.

Penalizing The Housewife

THE LEGISLATURE'S REFUSAL TO allow margarine to be colored is on a par with the old American prohibition law which forbade the sale of liquor but allowed the sale of handy ingredients for home manufacture. By the Legislature's decision margarine will continue to be sold along with a package of coloring matter which the housewife can use with a little unnecessary trouble. And why does the Legislature insist on this farcical annoyance? To make sure, it says, that margarine is not mistaken by the consumer for butter. As if anyone could fail to tell the difference by the price.

In fact, the sole purpose of the present law is to make margarine look as unattractive as possible, to discourage its sale and promote the sale of butter. It is a crude device designed to protect the dairyman from fair competition. The dairyman, needing and deserving the goodwill of the public, is foolish to persist in this public irritant. If he does so, the Legislature is foolish to listen to him.

In any case the clumsy protective mechanism will not work. So long as margarine is relatively cheap and the housewife is hard pressed to make ends meet she will buy it, colored or uncolored. But why should she be compelled to mix color into it by hand when a machine could relieve her of the extra work and inconvenience?

What's In The Pot?

SINCE WE "CANNOT TAKE OUT OF the pot more than there is in it," Canada's two immediate needs, says Mr. Abbott, are to increase the pot's contents by producing more goods and to demand somewhat less for our own use. We can produce more, he adds, by working harder and longer. We can reduce our demands on the total supply by refusing to buy luxuries and other non-essentials. Otherwise, if we continue to demand more than the pot holds we shall increase the present inflation and, in the resulting economic disturbance, undermine the nation's defence.

These are undeniable facts and should be obvious to all Canadians who can understand simple arithmetic. Yet they are everywhere denied by the present spurt of panic-buying. They evidently are not understood by those who think that inflation can be cured without even a slight reduction in the nation's consumption of goods. Far too many Canadians still imagine that the pot is bottomless.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

IN CASE you don't realize what a politically-shady character you are dealing with in this column, I had better confess. It would be only honest of me. For some months I have been on the free mailing list of a publication I can only describe as somewhat Fascist. Imagine what might happen to me if its offices were raided and my name was found in its files. But worse than that has happened. The editor did me the honor of quoting me in his last issue, and quoting me with approval, too. At least, I think it was the latest issue. . . . I don't open the things very often, for I now recognize their plain wrappers only too well. He didn't spell my name right, but I recognize my words even when torn a little rudely from their context.

I'D HAVE a devil of a time explaining to any inquisition or tribunal just how I got onto that free list, and just how I got quoted "with relish." If that editor one day goes to jail (as he may), I may have to go along too. After he has shown quite plainly that I am a friend of his, he'll be no use in my claiming that he is no friend of mine and that I've never met him or heard of him. It can be proved that his B.C. henchmen invited me to a secret meeting the other night. (They did, too, though I did not reply to the invitation.) If that isn't damning, what is? Damning, I mean to say, in the eyes of the courts of enquiry we may one day have. An ordinary magistrate or judge would laugh at such evidence. But an Investigator of Political Heresy would shudder at my shady past, and brand me for life.

I CAN hear the horrible cross-examination now. Grand Inquisitor: Were you on the free list?

Me: Yes.

G.I.: Why?

Me: That always puzzled me.

G.I.: Rubbish.

Me: Absolutely.

G.I.: So you admit you're talking rubbish?

Me: No, no. I said the paper was rubbish.

G.I.: It's too late now. . . you've confessed. Were you invited to a meeting?

Me: Yes.

G.I.: A secret one?

Me: Couldn't have been, if they asked a stranger.

G.I.: Then obviously you weren't a stranger. Did you go?

Me: No.

G.I.: Filthy liar. You went in disguise.

Me: Sorry. I didn't know. Must have been in a trance.

G.I.: Oh, so you take drugs too, hey? Are you broke?

Me: Very.

G.I.: So you admit you're the David Brock quoted here?

Me: I'm David Brock, not Broke.

G.I.: You just said you were Broke.

Me: I'm Brock and I'm broke.

G.I.: Senseless quibbling. Lock him up.

WHAT saddens me most, and alarms me most, is the way the editor assumes that if I agree with him on a few points, such as the danger of a Communist fifth column, I must then agree with him on everything, such as his passionate belief that the U.S.A. is now run by a gang of international Jews, or his belief that his Fascism is very different from the Communism he hates. If there is anything that disturbs me, it is when a man assumes that I belong to his gang just because I admit he may be right once in a while.

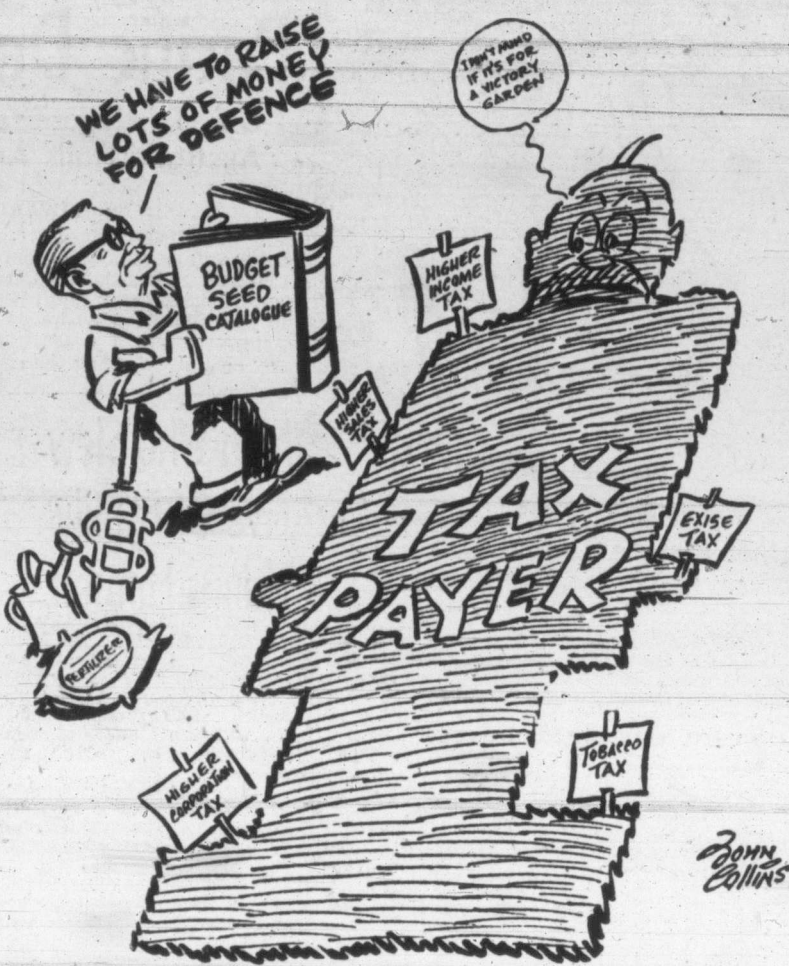

I HAVE been claimed as a bad brother—Fascists, Communists, Socialists, Die-hards, Reformers, Diet Fiemas, Bimetalists, Radio Dramatists, Teetotalists, Sots, the members of 17 religions I am not allowed to mention here, the members of 32 races that internationalism forbids me to mention, Outdoersmen, Indoorsmen, Simple-lifers, Brahmins, Lovers, Moralists, Immoralists, Dapper-wits, Natty Dressers, Food Snobs, Food Sluts, Sun-bathers, Soul Mates, Fake Conversationalists, Non-conversationalists, the Educated, the Uneducated, the Facetious, the Lovers, the Doomed, Givers of Advice, Takers of Advice, and ten thousand others, including people who Love the Finer Things. The time has come for people to stop claiming me as a blood brother. It has ceased to be funny. But it will start to be funny again when I am shot by several sides at once and always for the wrong reason.

TEA FOR ONE

I SEE they are growing tea in the Fraser Valley. And selling it, too, and planning bigger plantations. Well, here's luck to them. I'm always game for one more cup. . . . me and Dr. Johnson. . . . though I honestly prefer a good Woo Lung, sometimes called Oolong, to most of the things I am handed, and I agree with Belloc when he says that a man who'd drink Ceylon or Indian tea would smoke hemp. (Dammit, you're making me thirsty. Time off while I make tea. Though I see my wife has only six kinds on the shelf over the stove today. Either she's economizing or she's hiding the stuff on me. . . . which is also economical at that.)

I am not snobbish about people ruining tea with sugar and cream. After all, if the tea is bad to begin with, you might as well mock it with sugar and cream. You can't, as they say, spoil a bad egg. Though a little rum helps bad tea more than sugar and cream will. Still, good rum deserves good tea. There is no such thing as sugar and cream in good tea, because once muddled that tea is no longer good.

Digging Deep This Year

As Our Readers See It

HOTEL SERVICE PLUS

On several occasions lately, I have noted the tendency to compare hospital and hotel prices. The average man-on-the-street seems to be of the opinion that if a hotel is able to make a profit on say $5 a day for its rooms, the hospital should be able to operate on much the same rates.

As one who has been closely connected through her profession with hospitals for a number of years, I would like to point out certain factors which contribute to the higher rates charged by the hospitals and which the average person does not often consider.

Do you know of a hotel that serves breakfast in bed (lunch and dinner, too) without extra charge, that puts you to sleep at night with a professional back rub, awakens you in the morning with a bath, supplies you with indoor transportation, keeps an around the clock watch over you as you sleep, provides staff doctors and nurses to watch over you and sends professional help at any hour of the day or night at the touch of a button?

There is also the fact that the hospital has three times the service space of the ordinary hotel, furnished with thousands of dollars worth of equipment which quickly becomes outdated and has to be replaced. University-trained dietitians weigh and balance your food in the specially equipped diet kitchens, registered pharmacists compound your drugs, trained technicians operate the laboratories and other professional personnel keep complete records of your hourly progress.

Is it any wonder that hospital rates are higher? Is there comparison of services rendered?

CHRISTIANITY—CONSTANT

Mr. L. J. Pepper in his reply to Mr. J. Stephenson's letter makes the positive statement that Christianity is based on selfishness.

Now Christianity, as its name implies, is based upon the teachings of Christ as set forth in the Gospels. These teachings were summed up by the Saviour Himself in two statements, viz: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, etc." and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Nobody will deny that through the ages men who have professed and called themselves Christians have done hideous things in the name of Christ; or that men have taught doctrines which are the antithesis of His teaching. But we are not talking about human frailty or weakness, and in any event such people were condemned in advance by our Lord Himself viz: "Not everyone who saith unto Me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

The basis of Christianity has remained constant.

Either Mr. Pepper has read the Gospels and, if so, deliberately distorts the facts to suit his own thesis; or else he has not read them and so writes in complete ignorance of the subject. "CHRISTIAN."

SEED OF DELINQUENCY

Mrs. Heywood in a recent letter expressed indignation at the lack of discipline in handling delinquents. Apropos of this, a little incident which came under my observation on Fort Street Monday reveals how these seeds of delinquency may be sown early in life. A small boy with his mother took one or two pea pods out of a basket outside a shop. Having opened one pod and not finding many peas in it, he went back for more, while the mother stood waiting. Has not this mother enough brains to realize, small though this incident is, she is allowing her child to feel and think that stealing other people's property does not matter?

OBSERVER.

TAX TOWARD HEALTH

I have refrained from signing the petition regarding the hospital insurance as no happier alternative for paying hospital costs has been presented.

I do not believe, as some critics do that people are abusing their hospital privileges—on the contrary many are being discharged before they are really ready. Let's face the facts, people are getting sicker more often—for numerous reasons—some of these reasons are preventable and for this reason I suggest imposing taxes on some of the causes.

Our present-day diet has at present much bearing on health. Over-refined foods do, I believe, weaken our resistance to colds, flu, pneumonia and other horrors.

I would suggest a tax be levied on white bread of the over-refined variety, less tax on better varieties of bread, and a subsidy on good whole wheat bread—the same goes for polished rice, white sugar, etc.

A tax be placed on chocolate bars, candies and pop. True, children need energy-producing foods, but there are certainly more healthful varieties.

A tax should be placed on picture shows for children; active outdoor hobbies and games, build up strong bodies and resistance to ills. Surely it is detrimental to physical and mental health for a child to sit in the stuffy atmosphere of the movie every Saturday?

Sen. Vandenberg Symbol Of An Era

SENATOR Arthur Vandenberg, who died last night, was at once a symbol and an architect of the present American era. He began political life in Michigan as an ambitious, vain and isolationist. He ended it—humble, revered and internationalist.

The story of Senator Vandenberg's conversion from the small town politician to the international statesman is the story of the United States in the last 20 years. This growth in intellect and power did not come easily to Senator Vandenberg. To achieve it he had to rethink his philosophy from the beginning.

After the Vandenberg of isolation during the interval years, a new Vandenberg began to emerge toward the end of World War II. It was a lucky day for him, and for the world, when President Truman sent Vandenberg to San Francisco as one of the American delegates to the founding conference of the United Nations. By making the American delegation bi-partisan Mr. Truman avoided the fatal mistake of Woodrow Wilson at Paris. Vandenberg worked loyally for the Democrat in framing the Charter and, as much as any man, wrote its final draft.

The bipartisan foreign policy of the United States Congress was now firmly established and it rested largely on an axis of friendship and confidence lying between Senator Vandenberg on Capitol Hill and the U.S. State Department at the other end of Pennsylvania Ave.

Again and again the United States Government found itself quite unable to push through Congress its most vital foreign policies without the intervention of Vandenberg. He was not always treated too well by the Administration. Often it would devise policies without consulting him and then expect him to rally the Republican party behind them. Vandenberg never failed.

PARTY AND MORAL POWER

Without the political power which he wielded in the Republic party and the unequalled moral power he wielded in the country, it is doubtful that the United States would have embarked on the two largest decisions in its modern history—the Marshall Plan and the North Atlantic Treaty.

The Marshall Plan originated in the mind of Mr. Acheson, was scribbled down on a slip of paper by Gen. Marshall as he flew home from Moscow, but its appropriations of aid for Europe could hardly have gone through Congress without the extraordinary ingenuity of the senator from Michigan. The North Atlantic Pact might almost be said to have been born in the famous Vandenberg resolution which proposed an alliance to suppress Germany or any other European aggressor.

By the time the Grand Alliance was firmly established last year the man who contributed so much to its creation was dying. Yet his power in the Senate, unique and above party, was still so great that he was consulted from time to time on every pending issue of international affairs. Even in illness he remained the acknowledged Republican spokesman on foreign affairs, taking precedence over Senator Taft. As Vandenberg neared his end, Senator Taft began to take over his power in the Congress and instantly there emerged the old instinct of isolationism which Taft had long held, but had suppressed in deference to Vandenberg. The result of this change in personality has been to split the Republican party wide open in foreign affairs between the followers of Taft and the followers of Vandenberg.

GENIAL FIGURE

The man who rose from a newspaper boy on the streets of Grand Rapids, who passed through the editor's chair, and became one of the most influential public figures of his time, was a genial and companionable soul. He loved the camaraderie of Capitol Hill, the talk of politics, the gossip of smoked-filled convention hotel rooms. Above all he loved his home and family, and from the death of his wife he never recovered. He was probably the ablest orator in the Congress, a stubborn debater and quick phrasemaker. While he began as a bitter partisan, he ended with as many friends in the Democratic party as in his own, among them the President of the United States.

History will rate Vandenberg as one of the most enlightened American statesmen of this century, a man who missed the presidency, which he would have ornamented, but who, in his lifetime, had a larger effect on humanity as a whole than most presidents.

Stow It

Exchange

DR. MORTIMER OSTOW, writing in The Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases (which sounds like soothing reading), has explained that there is no such thing as being too tired to think. Thought, says he, requires almost no measurable amount of energy and so is not hampered by even complete physical exhaustion. In fact, if your thinking leads you to a solution of your problems, it may actually be restful. So now you know. Think it over, if you're not too tired. Well, Joseph Conrad, who probably used his old thinker as much as Dr. Ostow ever did, said that creative writing was, many times more exhausting than carrying coal on your back; he had tried both. But Joe was wrong, see? When you're too weary even to remember your own phone number, it means you can really think of it quite easily, and a million other numbers too. Including, I hope, the number of Dr. Ostow, so that you can phone him up and break him down into two syllables and say, "Oh, stow it!"

Britain's View Of MacArthur

Below is an excerpt from the statement made by Britain's Foreign Secretary, Herbert Morrison, to the House of Commons on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

A NUMBER of questions on the Order Paper relate to the way in which General MacArthur has carried out his instructions. In view of the change of command, this episode is now closed and I do not desire to say more than to draw the attention of the House to the traditional British interpretation of the relationship between a military commander in the field and the government to whom he is responsible. On this matter, successive British Governments have always consistently stood for the subordination of the military to the political. It is clear from the statement issued by the President of the United States, that under the American Constitution and practice the same interpretation is placed on this relationship, as indeed it must in any democratic country where the views of the people expressed by their freely elected governments must be paramount. The record of General MacArthur is, however, not to be judged solely by some of his recent public utterances. He was a great servant of the Allies during the war in the Pacific and he has proved himself a brilliant soldier. He had displayed qualities of the highest order in his conduct of the occupation in Japan. These are achievements which will be remembered long after the immediate controversy has been forgotten.

More Homes Abandoned; Mississippi Flood Grows

Heavy Damage Threatened In Iowa, Illinois;
Highest Crest In History Expected Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP)—More families left their homes today in the Upper Mississippi Valley region as surging waters from the Mississippi River rolled out over lowlands in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Cooler weather spread over the flood area, delaying the spring run-off.

The river threatened heavy damage in Iowa and Illinois. Plans were being made in many river towns for evacuation of families early next week.

Thirty-five families left their homes in Dubuque, Ia., as flood waters spilled over a three-block area. A record 22.5-foot flood crest was expected Monday.

The highest crest in history—18.5 feet—was expected in the Illinois-Iowa area about Tuesday. Officials in Davenport, Ia., estimated 300 families will have to be evacuated.

The Mississippi crested almost three feet above flood level Wednesday at LaCrosse, Wis., where some 1,500 persons have been forced from their homes and another 1,000 were in homes surrounded by water. At Prairie Du Chien, Wis., a crest of about 22 feet—four feet above flood level—was expected Saturday. About 150 families already have been evacuated.

Britain Needs U.S. Air Strike Power

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain must rely on the United States to provide air striking power in the event of war, the Air Force Chief of Staff, Sir John Slessor, indicated today.

Slessor said Britain's Bomber Command would be for some time primarily a tactical force for the defence of western Europe.

He said four-engined long-range jet bombers soon will be replacing Britain's piston-driven planes.

M.P. SAYS GOODBYE

Winnipeg Man Resigns

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal Party, after losing one supporter in the House of Commons Wednesday, was immediately offered the full support of a man elected as an Independent Liberal.

Ralph Maybank (L-Winnipeg South Centre), due to return to his private law practice in Winnipeg, said "farewell" to the chamber.

"This will be my last appearance in this House," said the 60-year-old Mr. Maybank. Later, Herve Rousseau, elected as Independent Liberal for the Quebec constituency of Rimouski in a by-election last October, said that he will fully support the government.

At the same time it was learned that Edgar Leduc, elected as Independent member for Montreal Jacques Cartier in a 1949 by-election, has made peace with the Liberal organization in his constituency and has been invited to party caucus.

Other speakers included Earl Catherwood (P.C.—Haldimand, Ont.), and Robert Fair (S.C.—Battle River, Alta.). They called attention to the farmer's position in Canada's economic life and asked that he be given a better break.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beasly

A number of small but important jobs are part of the daily routine of the home gardener with a greenhouse and cold frames.

The checking of seedlings each day to prevent overcrowding is of greatest importance. If a flat or two of seedlings are plucked out daily, the job does not become monotonous, and they will benefit from the early shift.

The flats of half-hardy annuals such as Stock, Snapdragons, Larkspur and Salvia farinacea which are in the cold frames should be open to the air most of the time. Watch for signs of frost at night, and use the glasses for protection.

Small plants of perennials which were seeded last summer or fall, and wintered in frames, may be planted into permanent positions. To prevent wilting, cut the soil into squares around each plant in the flat. Lift out the squares carefully, and you will find that each plant has sufficient undamaged roots to maintain it in perfect condition without a setback until new roots reach out into the new soil.

Watering of flats in the cold frames is almost a daily chore, especially with the combination of sun and wind. Keep the seedlings growing without check for best results.

The greenhouse will need watering twice a day while the present temperatures last. Get the vents open as early as the sun rises, to avoid a temperature of 90 degrees which can easily be reached in an hour or so.

Moisture on the walks and stagings several times a day is necessary for plants which do not enjoy generous spraying of their foliage. Saintpaulias (African Violets), all the different varieties of Begonias, Gloxinias, Achimenes, and ferns are among the plants which enjoy a high humidity on hot days.

Reject Price Controls, Farmers' Moratorium

Coalitionists Join C.C.F. In Two Divisions Of Final House Session

Two divisions called in the final minutes of the 1951 session of the Legislature Wednesday afternoon saw Coalition backbenchers joining the C.C.F. Opposition in unsuccessful efforts to have reimposition of price controls and a moratorium for Okanagan fruit farmers.

The price control move, sponsored by Randolph Harding, C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan, was lost 30 to 9, and the moratorium move, proposed by Rupert Haggen, C.C.F., Grand Forks-Greenwood, was voted down 26 to 13.

The House sat four hours during the afternoon to clear the order paper for prorogation in the evening, and the final act was the filing of answers to a question on hospital insurance from Opposition Leader Winch by Health Minister Douglas Turnbull.

The question had been asked verbally on several occasions during the session: What was the amount of premiums collected in the last nine months of 1950? The answer finally given: nearly $9,000,000. It was reported also expenditures in the period amounted to nearly $13,000,000.

Joining six C.C.F. members (Frank Calder of Atlin was absent) for the price control resolution, were Don Brown, Cln., Vancouver-Burrard; Tom Uphill, Labor-Fernie, and W. A. C. Bennett, Independent, South Okanagan.

JOIN OPPOSITION

On the moratorium question, asked to save fruit farmers who suffered orchard losses in the severe winter of 1949-50 from losing their mortgaged homes and property, five Coalition members joined Bennett, Uphill and the six C.C.F. members. They were Maurice Finnerty, Similkameen; Charles Morrow, North Okanagan; Arthur Ritchie, Salmon Arm; Alex Hope, Delta, and Dr. J. J. Gillis, Yale.

In price control debate the argument that run-away inflation could only be stopped with ceilings was challenged with the claim that increased production was the solution to the rapidly rising cost of living.

Debate was more heated on the moratorium question with both Premier Johnson and Finance Minister Anscomb contributing.

They said the Okanagan fruit farmers, had the government's sympathy, and reminded that a $250,000 grant had been made to assist those hardest hit.

To place a moratorium on the district would block borrowing for house construction and municipal needs, though, and it was from this approach the government opposed the move.

Longest House Session Since 1930 Prorogued

Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace prorogued the 1951 session of the 22nd Legislative Assembly of B.C. at 9:05 Wednesday night.

It was the end of 39 days of sittings for the provincial lawmakers.

At prorogation, witnessed by packed public galleries, the Lieutenant-Governor gave assent to 112 bills. He had approved two of them earlier—the controversial Hospital Insurance Act amendments providing for increased premiums, and an interim supply bill.

The 1951 session was the longest since 1930, when the House, under the Tolmie regime, sat one more day.

Following prorogation, members of the Legislature attended a reception at the home of Premier and Mrs. Byron Johnson.

There was the traditional throwing of papers and shouts of glee in the usually solemn Legislative Chamber as soon as the Lieutenant-Governor, his aides and private secretary retired after the close of the session was official.

STILL NO HUSBAND

English Girl Writes Giving Added Details

Brenda Willis—English girl—who wrote to the Times a month ago saying she was seeking a Canadian Mountie (or anyone else) as a husband, hasn't got her man yet, but she is "still hopeful," she told the Times in a second letter which arrived today.

To help prospective suitors, the English girl gives some additional details on the type of man she is seeking. "I would like to marry someone over 30 years of age and over five feet, eight inches tall," she writes. Miss Willis did not give her own age.

Miss Willis says she is "most grateful for the help the Times is giving her to find a husband." She resides at "Fulworth, White Lane, Catering, Portsmouth, Hants, Eng."

N.B. Conservative Leader Resigning

FREDERICTON (CP)—Hugh Mackay, leader of the Progressive Conservative opposition in the New Brunswick Legislature, delivered what he said was his last speech as party leader Wednesday night. He announced several months ago he intended to retire because of ill health.

He described the province's financial position as of a "precarious nature" and "very serious." The Liberal Party, he said, would go down as the "prodigal government."

Legislature page boys display joy as House prorogued.

Legislature Approves Contributory Pensions

Approval of the proposed contributory old-age pension scheme for Canada was given by the B.C. Legislature Wednesday.

B.C. is the last of the provinces to give its support. Unanimous approval of the province is necessary to amend the B.N.A. Act allowing the contributory scheme to be inaugurated.

The plan, generally, is to pay $40 pensions to everyone 70 years and over, and $40 to persons 65 to 69 on a means test basis.

Premier Johnson indicated during discussion of a resolution supporting the government's approval of the plan given last December, that the contributory scheme probably will come into effect next year.

Indirect Sales Tax Approved

A proposed amendment to the B.N.A. Act to permit provinces to impose an indirect sales tax up to 3 per cent was approved by the Legislature as it wound up its session duties Wednesday afternoon.

Approval was given over the "nays" of the official opposition which argued an indirect sales tax was wrong in principle.

Government heads gave repeated assurance it was not proposed to implement a hidden tax in B.C.

Other provinces wanted authority to impose an indirect sales tax, though, and unanimous approval of all of the provinces was required.

Bill Extends Civic Franchise

The spouses of property owners and tenants in the City of Vancouver will be allowed to vote at the next civic election.

Despite opposition from Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald an amendment to the Vancouver Incorporation Act was passed extending the civic franchise.

Mr. MacDonald argued that the principle of the bill was wrong.

ASK TRADE ACT BE REVIEWED

Terms of reference for the special labor committee will be broad enough to cover the entire field of labor, Attorney-General Wismer assured the Legislature Wednesday.

He said the government would consider a C.C.F. request that the Trade Union Act be included in the review by the committee of the labor laws.

Charged In Shooting

WICKLIFFE, Ky. (AP)—A grand jury yesterday indicted Mrs. W. M. Coffee, 40, on a charge that she advised a Cairo, Ill., bartender to kill her husband. She also was indicted on a charge of shooting and wounding Dr. Coffee, president of the American Veterinary Association. The veterinarian was wounded and Jim Hall—the bartender—killed during a gunfight March 10.

FROSTY RECEPTION IN STORE FOR BALL TEAM?

The vagaries of the weather gods caused the eyes of parks board employees to pop this morning when they arrived for a day's stint at Athletic Park.

They found the big pitch almost covered with ice.

Three big sheets of the white shiny stuff had formed during the night, and it was heavy enough to last until Old Sol got high around 10.

When the news leaked out George I. Warren was pained but prepared. "Just a stunt," said George, "just a stunt. Thought maybe the boys would like to try soccer on skates, so we borrowed the arena ice plant."

Coleman's Column

By JIM COLEMAN

MONTREAL—About time for another animal-husbandry note on the Stanley Cup playoffs. This piece concerns the occasion on which Norman Alexander Marvyn "Red" Dutton smuggled Prince Bobo von Arles into Montreal in a single bedroom, aboard Canadian Pacific Railway's Number 22. At the time, Mr. Dutton was the president of the National Hockey League, an official burden which he was attempting to bear with fortitude and dignity.

Prince Bobo von Arles, for his part, was a canine with an impeccably blue-blooded background. Unfortunately, The Prince was young and unsophisticated and hardly a suitable traveling companion for a gentleman of Mr. Dutton's ebullient temperament. Furthermore, despite his youth, Bobo was a very large and awkward Doberman-Pinscher and he was as nervous as a drug-addict who suddenly has been deprived of his fix-foo powders.

The Prince had been presented to President Dutton by a Toronto friend during a Toronto-Canadians Stanley Cup series. In his customarily casual fashion, President Dutton had failed to report the gift to Mrs. Dutton who was awaiting his return from Toronto in her handsomely-furnished apartment near the Montreal Forum.

Smuggled Aboard With Assistance

It was expedient that President Dutton should get The Prince aboard Number 22 while official eyes were turned. This was accomplished with the co-operation of two confederates who, at the critical moment, grabbed the Sleeping Car Conductor and told him the old story about the fellow who came-home-and-found-a-new-refrigerator-in-his-apartment. While the conductor was laughing at it to bust his girdle, Dutton and The Prince scampered aboard the train and Dutton slammed the bedroom door.

Any persons who has occupied a single bedroom on Number 22 knows that it consists of one narrow berth, a fold-up wash-basin and another item of bathroom equipment.

Mr. Dutton was brushing his teeth when the locomotive emitted a mournful whistle as it passed the Leaside mile-pole.

Prince Bobo von Arles pricked his ears and echoed a mournful howl that sent other occupants of the car diving under their covers in terror.

Immediately, the Sleeping Car Conductor knocked on Dutton's door and demanded sternly: "Mr. Dutton—Do you have a dog or a banshee in that room?"

"Who? Me?" President Dutton replied innocently. "I assure you that there's no one in here but us National Hockey League officials."

The Dog Didn't Use Mouthwash

President Dutton soon learned that the only method of quieting his aristocratic canine was to permit him to share the berth. If ever you've attempted to sleep in a narrow bed with a Doberman you have some idea of Dutton's dilemma. Additionally, The Prince was one of those unfortunate beasts which are afflicted with halitosis.

There was only one solution—Dutton left the dog between the sheets and ensconced himself on the only other available piece of furniture.

In the middle of the night, the porter opened the small under-bed doorway to get president Dutton's shoes. Peering through the aperture, the porter was surprised to see the president of the National Hockey League sleeping bolt upright.

"I've seen some strange things on these trains," mused the porter, "but the company tells me just to mind my own business and keep my mouth shut."

The next morning, president Dutton summoned two referees to straighten his back, donned his clothes and determined to smuggle Prince Bobo von Arles from the train at Montreal West. "Oh boy, oh boy, oh boy—is Mrs. Dutton going to love this dog?" he enthused.

The debarkation was accomplished successfully but, just as The Prince was regaining nervous land-legs, an outgoing Delaware and Hudson train on the next track whistled shrilly.

Sparrow In Treetop; Bobo In Bush

That was too much for Prince Bobo von Arles—he yanked the leash from president Dutton's hand and scurried down the street.

It was 45 minutes later that president Dutton caught him. In the meantime, Prince Bobo von Arles had hidden behind a thorn hedge in a swamp of melting snow and mud. Unmindful of the taunts of small boys on their way to school, president Dutton crawled through the mud and thorns, uttering cajoling noises to calm his pet. We've seen miners who looked cleaner than president Dutton after his ordeal. The thorns had cut his face in three places and his suit looked like the University of Toronto football field on a wet Grey Cup day.

Eventually, Mr. Dutton and The Prince presented themselves at the Dutton apartment and knocked tentatively.

Mrs. Dutton took one look at the dishevelled pair and slammed the door quickly.

Behind the door—just before he left to seek a nice dog-house equipped for light house-keeping for dog and man—president Dutton distinctly heard Mrs. Dutton sobbing those immortal words, "Drinking again!"

CLEVELAND'S MOUND STAFF SHOWS CLASS

Wynn Handcuffs Detroit Power

Early Wynn and Bob Lemon sound a warning that Cleveland will be a tough nut to crack in the American League.

Wynn's four-hitter in a 10-inning battle at Detroit yesterday, following Lemon's gaudy two-hit victory opening day, emphasize the class of the Indians' pitching staff. And Bobby Feller hasn't worked yet.

After Hean's homer tied the score in the ninth, the Tribe knocked out Dizzy Trout in the 10th. Ray Boone singled home Larry Doby with the winning run and Bob Kennedy scored the extra run on Pat Mullin's error to make it 4 to 2.

Pitching was the big story with the defending champion New York Yankees, too. Eddie Lopat taunted the red-faced Boston Red Sox and beat them 6 to 1, allowing only two singles. Following Vic Raschi's opening day shutout, this deflated the Red Sox stock several points.

Lopat clouted a two-run homer in the eighth for the final Yankee runs.

Bucky Harris' Washington Senators kept step with the Yankees and Indians by making it two in a row over Philadelphia 6 to 4 in a night game.

Bob Kuzava, lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth, was the winner. Only 2,055 watched.

Jim Konstanty, key to the Phillies' repeat pennant hopes, failed in his first relief appearance of 1951 against Brooklyn. With one on and nobody out in the ninth, Konstanty let the game wriggle away on Duke Snider's tying triple and Jackie Robinson's winning single, 4 to 3.

Willie Jones' two homers and one by Dick Sisler, pennant clinching hero of 1950, provided all the Phil runs.

Leo Durocher's pennant time table was disrupted at Boston when Sam Jethroe homered with two on in the ninth for an 8 to 5 victory over New York Giants.

The western teams in the National were not scheduled. In the American League a night game between the White Sox and Brown was rained out.

Lifetime Thrill Came Early

Arthur Bayliss, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bayliss, 2872 Murray Drive, experienced the golfers' thrill of a lifetime last week when he sank his tee shot on the 145-yard 14th hole at Gorge

Vale. Small trophy is from Gorge Vale Club for hole-in-one, large trophy is Times Cup in picture, which Arthur won in a Sooke Day baby contest when he was nine months old.

IN THE QUARTER-FINALS

Painter-Fleming Game To Feature Match Play

This Sunday's quarter-final round in the Vancouver Island Match Play Open golf tournament will see Vic Painter, recently emerged winner of the Empress Golf Tournament, going against young Bob Fleming of Gorge Vale, over the course at Uplands.

Painter advanced to the quarter-finals by defeating Paul Phillips of Victoria Golf Club, 4 and 3, while Fleming goes there for beating Allan Senior, of his own club, 7 and 5.

Another good match will pit youngsters Ron McLeod and Ken Lea, while Ted Colgate will take on Don Ross.

McLeod won over Eric Hibberston 2 and 1 in his last match, while Lea beat Laurie Carroll, 4 and 3. Colgate won over Bob Morrison on the 19th and Ross bested Bill Court, 1 up.

The fourth match in the quarter-final round will see Vic Lowe, young Chinese golfer, take on Joe Pryke, a former professional player. Lowe looked particular good in his last game which upset medalist Jim Squire, 2 up, while Pryke edged Walter Newcomb in his previous contest match, 1 up.

Four W.I.L. Clubs Opening Tomorrow

Four Western International League baseball teams start playing for keeps tomorrow as the curtain goes up for the 1951 season.

Addition of several colorful managers, plus expected completion of a new baseball park at Vancouver, are expected to set attendance records.

Thousands are expected to observe their late and lamented grandmother's funeral by attending games in Wenatchee, Spokane and Salem.

Tacoma and Victoria fans must wait for Saturday.

Vancouver plays at Wenatchee, and Tri-City goes to Salem for Friday's openers.

FORMER MATES

Rotund Kewpie Dick Barrett and Alan Strange will be opposing managers in the game at Spokane. It will be Barrett's first crack at being a club pilot. Strange and Barrett were team mates on the Seattle squads that were nabbing pennants back in the early '40s.

Another ex-rainier, Bill (The Rooster) Schuster will lead the Vancouver Capitanos against Tommy Thompson's Wenatchee aggregation. Schuster drove several managers, including Charlie Grimm, to the brink of insanity when he was an excellent—if exuberant, shortstop on various class A and major league teams.

Hugh Luby, another former Coast League player, is the new Salem manager. He'll be masterminding it against Charlie Peterson of the Tri-City Braves.

BRILLHEART BACK

Marse Jim Brillheart and the Tacoma Tigers should be able to give Yakima a tough tussle in their opener. Tacoma lost out to Yakima in the last day of the season in 1950, splitting with Vancouver while the eastern Washington team swept a double header from Victoria.

Bill Bfennor, who was top man when Yakima won the title last year, is back as manager.

The league openers will be observed by the usual ceremonies, with at least one city, Spokane, giving the proceedings a new gimmick. Anyone who speaks longer than 60 seconds will be drowned out by band music.

WALKER WILL COVER GAME

Bill Walker, sports editor of the Times, left by plane this morning for Spokane where he will cover the opening game of the W.I. League in that city.

Walker will stay with the team over the week-end to give Times readers a first-hand report on the performance of the Athletics and personality sketches of newcomers to this year's club.

Citation Makes Comeback Try

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Mighty Citation, leading money winner of all time, raced third in his first comeback attempt—a six-furlong sprint at Bay Meadows on Wednesday.

It was the Calumet Farm's ace's first race since last June 24.

The time was 1:09 1/4. Big Cy was beaten by approximately one length.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

A day at the office:
Arise 6 a.m. . . . reset alarm and back to the pit . . . resurrect self at 6.14, perform ablutions, swallow dry piece of toast, gulp down cup of coffee and into the omnibus. . . .
Pick up post office employee with similar breakfast problem at 6.35, not beating B.C.E.R. out of anything as P.O. worker in uniform. . . .

Also pick up fellow who packs lunch bucket and whose first remark is "nice morning" . . . talk over weather for one minute then decide that fellow who gained publicity by jumping on backs of parked cars mustn't have much to do at home, or rather has no garden. . . .
After manoeuvring into position for traffic light at Quadra, speed to Douglas Street unmolested . . . deposit workman on corner and proceed to Broad Street . . . deposit P.O. gentleman on corner and park in restricted zone. . . .
Time is now 6.31 . . . pick up mail from elevator man and find that Mrs. Shirley Paterson wins a golf competition at Gorge Vale . . . this brings to mind that hubby "Gommy" used to cut quite an athletic figure himself. . . .

Walker

6.45—End discussion of night's activities with elevator man who must leave to write his daily column about such activities. . . .
6.46—Arrive at desk and find no pictures from photographers Irving Strickland and Bill Halkett . . . 6.48 Find pictures under story that Gill McDougald makes berth with New York Yankees. . . .

6.52—No. 2 Lance Whittaker, arrives and beams, "told you that Sammartino would try out for Shamrocks" . . . recall he did make prediction about two months ago . . . apologize and know we have another "scoop" . . . Norm Baker one day, Sammartino the next. . . . Then get to figuring that Arnold Ferguson has tremendous job in picking out a team this year with only 30 to choose from . . . remembering also that Fergie a father again . . . his wife Flossie presenting not a player but a future fan . . .
Pitch into copy on desk and find that we are invited to big smorgasbord at Parkville Dog Show Friday . . . Being unable to attend take this opportunity of saying so . . . See also that Senior Softball League now decide to build own bleachers with city council's approval, and to charge 10 cents admission to same . . . Realize this is 900 per cent profit over past years . . . Think council should approve, but feel fans will raise small odor over increased price . . . Remember to chastise fans in future if they do. . . .

Phone rings . . . It's gentleman wanting to know date of Association Cup final . . . Tell him April 28 . . . phone rings again . . . It's Rocky Brooks telling us not to forget resumption of wrestling Thursday (tonight) . . . phone rings again . . . It's member of Track Roadster Association wanting us to know that such a group isn't a devil-may-care organization but really interested in safe and sane driving . . . also that Sgt. Brooke Douglas to address meeting tonight . . .

Now 8.30 . . . most of fellow staffers have arrived . . . Dick Donaldson, bowler with Tillicums, makes note that several local teams are going to N.B.C. tourney at Vancouver at month's end . . . get note from Whittaker that 12-year-old Arthur Baylis makes hole-in-one at 14th at Gorge Vale . . . also that same lad once won Times baby contest . . .

Go to coffee at 9.10 . . . talk gets around to rugby . . . Bill Halkett tells of young old-timers such as Roddy McGinnes, fancy dan fullback . . . Ken Fleming, hard-running three-quarter . . . Doug Peden, best opportunist ever to play here . . .
Agree with Bill that rugby almost dead, but say Crimson Tide gave the McKechnie Cup good try . . . Remember also Doug Bray . . . best hook Victoria had in past decade . . . and how cagey Doug used to be when he was winded . . . Bill recalls his last game with Tide and how Doug set him up for a try . . .

9.45—Take ribbing from composing room staff over A's . . . caution same hecklers by saying "Cougars!" make mental note to reserve space for "Red" Wells on Saturday night boxing special to Nanaimo . . .

Check with M.E. (managing editor) over trip to Spokane . . . laugh feebly when he says it might rain and may as well stay home . . . put paper to bed and move conveyance from restricted zone to less restricted area . . . En route back to office learn that possibly arena-seating will be changed by next year . . . also that date still unchanged for Marylebone cricket team visit on Aug. 28.

Get report at 11 that Dixie and brother (think it's Len) Harper from crack 1949 Ladysmith softball team in town looking for battery job with senior A club . . . also that they won't be separated . . . agree with Wally Yeamans that team which secures their services will be team to beat this year . . . Also get report that Fred Donaghy now full-fledged umpire in a class C baseball league . . . Slip out for time to check with U.S. Immigration and Foreign Exchange branch over trip to Spokane . . . 11.45—home to lunch . . .

After repeat leave jolopy with Hank Rowe at service station and learn that former Domino great has retired again from cage spot . . . then back to office . . . have visit from George Towill of C.N.R. public relations staff . . . George just wanted to let us know annual Totem Pole golf tournament at Jasper, Labor Day weekend, still going strong . . .
Wind this opus up leaving things in capable hands of No. 2 until Monday . . . Not forgetting to remind him that soccer people still trying to get approval from baseball club for use of Athletic Park June 7, for game with Fulham and that ball game that day will probably be played in the afternoon . . . 3.15 home to the garden for first time in months . . .

Minor Hockey Boys To Break Training With Last Banquet

The 1950-51 minor hockey season is going to wind up exactly the way any regular boy would want it to wind up—with a feast.

President Doug Fletcher said today that the banquet will be held at Terry's April 30, and that servings will be interrupted only for the award of trophies to winning clubs, most valuable players and most improved players in each division.
Dads are invited to attend. Those who intend to be on hand are asked to contact the following: juniors, Ivan Temple, G 4974; juveniles, Alex Byers, G 7631; midgets, George Donaldson, B 6870; bantams, Laurie Perlette, E 9574; pee wees, Doug Fletcher, Col. 98-B.

Mawhinney Drops Overtime Match

PINEHURST, N.C. (CP) Vancouver's Bill Mawhinney figured as the loser today in the longest match in the 51-year history of the North and South Golf Tournament.

Ray Palmer of Wyandotte, Mich., upset the Canadian amateur king after 10 extra holes. The match ended in the 28th with Palmer's par five on the longest hole on the course wrapping it up as Mawhinney's third shot was trapped.
Palmer won the 18th to stave off defeat.

TENNIS CLUB MOVES INTO HIGH GEAR

New Hard Courts To Get Full Use

Slowly gathering momentum as its post-war building and reorganization program hits full stride, the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club will move into high gear this summer, according to executive vice-president Jim McArthur.

The three new hard-surface courts, completed in mid-season last year, will allow more play in 1951, with an early start and a later finish.

Already possessed of the best grass facilities—12 courts—of any club in Canada or the Pacific Northwest, the five asphalt courts bring the V.L.T.B.A. within the classification of the top clubs on the continent in the matter of playing area.

OPEN MAY 19

Official opening of play on the grass courts will take place May 19, precipitating the biggest single-season program in over 10 years.

The first club tourney has been set for the week of June 15-23.

The city title tourney will take place during the week of July 7-14.

The B.C. championships, which have been held elsewhere only four times in the last 40 years, will take over July 30-August 4.

Victoria has also been offered the national championships, but acceptance has been conditioned by the provision that they be held in conjunction with the provincial series, a provision that has not as yet been approved by the C.L.T.A.

The Canadian championships were last held in Victoria in 1935.

MEMBERSHIP HIGH

Operation of the new Badminton Hall has made year-round activity possible for the club for the first time in many years. Maintenance of membership has been improved through this development and the additional revenue obtained through rentals has assisted in keeping income constant.

Badminton membership stood at the 400 mark through the winter, and last year's tennis membership of 250 is expected to increase this season.

An indication of the enthusiasm being shown by the members came when extensive damage was done to fencing by high winter winds. Repairs have been undertaken by volunteer labor, the total cost to the club for heavy repairs being $200 for materials.

"It is this spirit," says McArthur, "which keeps the executive busy planning expansion and improvements in line with membership demands."

MINOR BOXLA SCHOOL SET

Plans for the holding of a boxla school for all divisions from pee-wee to senior B were announced today by president Doug Fletcher of the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association.

First session of the school will be held at Stevenson Park box Saturday morning.

Boys between the ages of 10 and 16 are asked to report at 9.30. Sticks and balls will be provided.

Boys over 16 should register Saturday morning. Practice times will be announced later. Senior players will be on hand as coaches. Anyone willing to assist in any other capacity is invited to phone president Fletcher.

Ready For Another Season

Genial Red McMillan, terrier-like defenceman with Victoria Shamrocks last year, is back giving the newcomers a battle for his berth this season. An all-star soccer player and a valuable member of the senior B basketball Shamrocks last winter, Red still feels he has another season or two in boxla.

EDDIE MAZUR TO STRIP FOR CANADIENS TONIGHT

MONTREAL (CP)—The "overtime series" as the boys along Peel Street refer to the Toronto-Montreal Stanley Cup finals, resumes tonight with the underdog Canadiens gunning for a second victory to tie the best-of-seven-series 2 to 2.

All the games so far—two in Toronto and one in Montreal—have gone into overtime before a winner was declared.

Both teams have been playing tight, heads-up hockey and even the opposing coaches appear agreed that the breaks will decide the series.

However, coach Dick Irvin of Les Canadiens, never one to let an opportunity pass, says: "If I was as lucky as the Maple Leafs, I'd be a millionaire."

Calum MacKay, left-winger on Montreal's Mosdell-Curry-MacKay line, came out of Tuesday night's tussle with an injured right ankle and may not play tonight.

Irvin said he would dress Eddie Mazur, rookie forward from Victoria Cougars, Bob Dawes and Bert Hirschfeld, both of whom have had experience in the position.

Light-Heavy Mat King To Display Wares Here Tonight

LEO JENSEN

Wrestling returns to the Club Sirocco tonight after an absence of several weeks and promoter Rocky Brooks says he has an all star card lined up for the inaugural.

Meeting in the main event will be world light-heavyweight champion Andy Tremaine and Armenian Mike Nazarian. In the other half of the double main Leo "The Lion" Newman will match holds with Dano McDonald.

Leo Jensen and Jack Fisher, a pair of crowd pleasers, will be seen in the special event while opening the card will be two local boys, Lionel Speller and Tyke Myron.

First bout starts at 8.30.

May Quit This Week

NEW YORK (AP)—A. B. (Happy) Chandler, whose contract as baseball commissioner was not renewed, may resign within a week, the Associated Press learned today.

Chandler, who was to have been here Tuesday to hand out World Series trophies to the New York Yankees, spent the day in Washington instead. He then left for his home in Versailles, Ky.

Fort Frances Ousts Nanaimo In Allan Cup

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fort Frances Canadians will represent the west in Allan Cup finals against either Owen Sound Mercurys or Bolbeau Castors this year.

The Ontario club captured the western Canada senior hockey title here last night, downing Nanaimo Clippers 11 to 5 before 1,000 fans to take their best-of-seven series four games to one.

Canadians split the first two games at home, winning the opener 7 to 2, but dropping the second 4 to 3 in overtime. They took the third 6 to 3 at Winnipeg and the fourth 4 to 2 in overtime.

Their first-string line of Vern O'Donnell, Johnny Irving and Willie Toninato collected nine scoring points in last night's encounter. O'Donnell had two goals and two assists; Irving two goals and Toninato three assists. Frank Eisenzoph, with two, Doc Johnson, Dun Sampson, Sambo Fedoruk, Rick Ricard and Ed Kilner were the other Fort Frances' marksmen. Defenceman Fedoruk also had three assists.

Nanaimo was paced by its playing-coach, Eddie Shamlock, who scored twice and set up winger Andy Clovechok for two others. Crusher Conway, hard-hitting defenceman, bagged the other Clipper goal.

NEVER HEADED

Canadians went out in front from the opening whistle. A penalty to Nanaimo defenceman Joe Fennell paved the way for two goals within 48 seconds.

Fort Frances took over 6 to 2 in the first period. The teams split two goals in the middle session, then Canadian outscored their opponents 4 to 2 in the final frame.

Mike Rivers, who replaced Dinny McManus in the Nanaimo net, was kept busy most of the night. He stopped 32 shots compared to Harry Barefoot's 26. Canadians were outshot only in the second period.

on May 2 with a game against North Shore Indians.

Indians will be quite a different club this year from what it was last. The North Shore crew will be without the services of such key figures as Mel Jones, who has quit the game altogether; Gordy Nickle, who has transferred to the Nanaimo Native Sons, and Joe Kinna, who has switched to New Westminster.

Indians, in addition, may be without their star net guard Stan Josephs, who rated the honor of being the league's best goalie last season. Josephs so far this year has failed to put in an appearance at any North Shore workout and it is possible the team will go along with 21-year-old Vic Grover, if Josephs doesn't show soon.

Referees for this year's season are all picked except one. The whistle footers will have Bill Wilks as their chief and will include Eddie Powers, who has just ended a busy season as hockey ref, and who has had plenty of lacrosse experience as a playing coach; Gordie Falka, a holdover from last year, and Frank Lee, formerly with Burrard.

Canada To Send 190 Athletes To Olympics

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Olympic Association has decided to send 190 athletes to the 1952 Olympic Games at Helsinki and 50 to the winter games at Oslo.

The association was told that the United States will be represented in the winter games by one hockey team. In the last games, in Switzerland, the U.S. had two representatives — one sponsored by the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association, the other by the U.S. Olympic Games Association. When the inevitable argument died down, neither team played.

So far as Canada is concerned, it requires $170,000 to finance the Olympic team. The association expects to obtain 50 per cent from the federal and provincial governments, the rest from private subscription.

In annual meeting the Canadian Olympic Association also re-elected its officers and moved to incorporate to protect its name and insignia.

Other business included designation of Ottawa as site for the Olympic paddling trials in 1951.

The meeting tabled a recommendation that a speed-skating foursome from western Canada be included in the winter games. The men recommended are Ralph Olin, Calgary; Gordon Audley, St. Boniface; Craig MacKay, Saskatoon, and Frank Stack, Winnipeg.

JOE PRIMEAU MAY RETIRE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Gazette said Tuesday that Joe Primeau, 45-year-old freshman coach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, will retire at the close of the current Stanley Cup series against Montreal Canadiens.

The Gazette says Toronto camp followers definitely stated Primeau was stepping out of the picture this spring.

Before game time Tuesday coach Primeau said he had "nothing to say."

General manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs told reporters it was the first he had heard of it.

HUMBLE START

The vast insurance business of Lloyd's of London began in Edward Lloyd's Coffee House in 1688.

Basketball Year-Around Progress Plan

Year-round promotion has been adopted by the Vancouver Island Basketball Association as a major plan in its "Back to Basketball" platform.

The new executive, headed up by Tommy Carson, will hold regular meetings throughout the summer months to perfect a campaign that will aim at bringing the hoop game its old popularity in Victoria.

One of the big objectives will be the building up of junior basketball, which has dropped off in the past two years. A roundup of equipment and uniforms is being made and a public appeal is going out to people who may have playing shorts, jerseys or jackets stored away.

These will be sorted out and dyed if necessary for allotment to junior teams. All equipment will in future be in charge of the league custodian, H. E. Turner.

DONATIONS ASKED

Anyone wishing to donate such equipment is asked to leave it at 848 Fort Street, 1410 Douglas Street, or at the office of the fire chief in Oak Bay. If it is not convenient to leave it at any of these places a phone call to Gar Taylor, B2331, will bring a collector.

Farm Boy's Industry Sets Shining Example

ST. ANTHONY, Ida. (U.P.) — Fifteen-year-old Lynn Cruser maintains a pretty rugged schedule, winning straight A's in his studies at school and performing routine chores on his father's farm.

In addition he has a flock of 900 chickens which he tends as his pet project, piecing it into a tight routine of assistance to his father on the family's potato farm.

The blond farm lad doesn't think he's doing anything unusual but his neighbors will tell you he puts many of them to shame. For Lynn is blind.

Novel Swim Contest

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Youths of King's College here and York, Pa. Y.M.C.A. are holding an unusual swimming competition. They swim in a variety of events, and names and times are being exchanged by airmail and points will be awarded for the three fastest times in each event.

Swap Jobs For Summer

OSLO (CP) — About 200 Norwegian office and industrial workers will swap jobs with the same number of Swedish workers for a minimum of three months this summer. The exchange is organized by an Inter-Scandinavian Association.

Hollywood Stars Being Told To Keep Out Of Mischief

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Hollywood's "movies-are-getting-better-than-ever" campaign has a hush-hush follow-up—movie stars must be better than ever.

Off screen, that is. Waving morality clauses in studio contracts, Hollywood's own legion of decency is on the march to corral the screen's "lost dignity." All of the major studios quietly have advised contract stars "to stay out of the headlines" and "act like normal human beings."

Two threats of breaking contracts for morality reasons already have been made.

Janet Leigh denies it and Gloria De Haven denies it, but insiders insist there was friction between them during the making of "Two Tickets to Broadway."

Two of Janet's songs were given to Gloria.

There a touchy theme to the new Joseph Bernhard-Anson Bond picture, "East Is East." It's all about a G.I. who brings home a Japanese war bride, Yamaguchi, Nippon's Betty Grable, will star.

Janet Gaynor had two pictures offered following her radio version of "Seventh Heaven" with Charles Farrell. But she still insists she's not interested in returning to the screen.

Sign outside Gig Young's dressing room after a long love scene with Virginia Grey: "Temporarily Out of Order."

That 30-year contract Milton Berle just signed with NBC, says Alan Wilson, will never work out. There just isn't that much material around for him to steal.

On Local Screen

Fortune in stolen money doesn't appear to interest bank robber Steve Cochran as he embraces Virginia Grey. Gaby Andre, beautiful new French star, looks on, in Warner Bros.' headline-paced crime drama, "Highway 301." Film starts today at Dominion.

Praises B.C. Support For Amateur Theatre

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert G. Newton, well-known British actor, Wednesday said he expected great things from amateur drama in Quebec. Addressing the Women's Canadian Club, he said "this province has a unique position in amateur theatre with the English influence of Shakespeare and the French influence of Moliere running side by side."

He said that British Columbia was "quite amazing" in the support its people gave amateur productions, and people often traveled great distances to see a play.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Stewart, Like Harvey, Doesn't Show His Face In New Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—James Stewart is taking a lesson from Harvey. In his new film, the actor's face doesn't appear, either.

"Don't get me wrong, Stewart isn't as invisible as the king-size rabbit. He's playing a clown in his new film, and he'll appear in heavy make-up throughout the story. Not once will you see his real face."

The film is the new C. B. De Mille epic, "The Greatest Show on Earth." Stewart plays a man who has committed some clouded crime in his past. He hides from the law by taking a job as a clown in the circus.

Stewart is taking considerably less than his usual salary of about $150,000 per picture. And the role is smaller than those of the other stars—Cornel Wilde,

Betty Hutton, Gloria Grahame and Dorothy Lamour.

STEWART'S HAPPY

I found Stewart happily hiding behind his make-up.

"This is quite a part," Stewart drawled. "If you sneeze, you're liable to miss me." He works 15 days of the 100-day shooting schedule.

I asked him why he is doing the role.

"Wal, it's a good part, even if it is short," he replied. "And I've always wanted to work for this man (DeMille)."

Stewart isn't the only one performing unusually in the film. Betty Hutton has learned to do her own stunts as the aerialist. She hangs by her hands, flies into a half-turn and is caught by a bona fide circus performer.

"I practised at the studio, doing it at 26 feet above the ground," she told me. "That wasn't so bad. Then we went with the circus and I went up to 46 feet. Believe me, I was scared. But once you're up there, you don't have time to think about it."

Cecil Maiden

LXIII

On, then, came the entries for the first race—nine of them, the bright silk shirts of the jockeys gleaming in the sunshine. There was a preliminary ragged cantering in front of the grandstand, then, marshaled by the race stewards, the horses were duly lined up—a thin whinny of impatience breaking from one or two of them as they waited for the signal.

There was a moment's hush. Then the crack of a revolver and they were off. A mile heat it was, around the hill—with excited eyes strained on them every yard of the way.

Mr. Dukes had even forgotten Caroline Murray in the urgency of the moment. He elbowed his way to the rail, a little further down the track, not ceasing to take his eyes off the circling horses. He added his own shouted encouragement to the general pandemonium, not stopping for a moment to realize how impossible it would be for any of the jockeys now rounding the far side of the hill, to hear the individual pieces of advice he gratuitously gave them.

His eyes were glued on the yellow shirt that carried most of the money he had brought here for the purpose. It started well, that horse. Then, three-quarters of the way home, however, it started slipping back... further and sickeningly further from the lead. Mr. Dukes continued to watch himself losing money with a kind of frenzied fortitude. He watched every horse pass the winning post, with the yellow-shirted jockey coming in next to the last. He sighed. That, he reminded himself, came of listening to Mr. Throckle, of the "Toby Jug."

He turned his eyes ruefully from the horses to the people again, and spotted, near to him, a small group of spectators from whom there stood out, her beauty noticeable even to a man who had just lost his shirt, a girl in a pink crinoline, with deep chestnut curls and the most refreshing smile he had seen for many a day.

She was chatting happily away with a middle-aged, plumper lady, and some children. He edged a little closer—not in the slightest sense wishing to intrude, but unable to avoid looking at his newly-discovered beauty.

As he did so, two young naval officers approached the group, and the taller of the two spoke to the girl, with a neat salute and an obviously gratified smile.

"Well—this is where you've been hiding yourself, Letty!" he exclaimed, and then, pulling forward his friend—"and allow me to present Lieut. Twining—Miss Letty Merridew—Mr. Twining."

Mr. Dukes was rooted to the spot. Could this be Miss Letitia Merridew—the subject of Caroline's interview with him? Even as he looked at her, it was easy to see that Miss Merridew must be a good dancer....

He watched her with mounting excitement. It had been part of the arrangement with Caroline that he was not to seek her out. But Caroline was busy with her own group of friends in the grandstand. And here was indeed a ravishing creature. So much so that Mr. Dukes decided to take matters into his own hands and introduce himself.

With a ceremonious flourish of his grey silk topper he addressed her.

"If you'll pardon me, ma'am... I couldn't help overhearing your name just now, and since we would in any case be meeting shortly, may I take the liberty of introducing myself now? I'm Mortimer Dukes, ma'am, at your service."

Letty turned more directly to him, with a growing smile of realization. "Mr. Dukes—of the Colonial Theatre?"

He bowed.

"Why, how glad I am to meet you, sir! And these gentlemen—"

she indicated the officers at her side—"Lieut. Braid—and Lieut. Twining."

Greetings were exchanged, it seemed easy to talk to this girl in the pink crinoline.

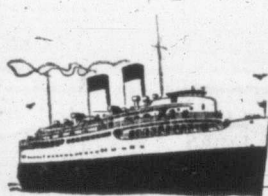

"Jervis," she was saying, "this is the gentleman I was telling you about. He's to let me have the theatre for the children one night, Caroline tells me. A very kindly gesture, don't you think?"

"Glad to meet you, sir," Braid said, but it was obvious that he did not share Letty's enthusiasm. And it did not appear that Mr. Twining did either.

Farming Life For Indians In N. Manitoba

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Northern Manitoba's Indians, hereditary trappers and hunters, are going in for farming.

The program will begin in the Pas area this spring when 300 of 600 acres of reserve land in one district will be cleared by tractor and plowed. As this area becomes farmed, another 300 acres will be broken and cultivated.

In addition, Indian land between the Saskatchewan and Carrot Rivers will be leased to white farmers for a few years. Then it will be taken over for Indian farming.

Eric Law, Indian superintendent here, explained that as young Indians prove themselves adept at farming they will receive blocks of land for their own use, until farming has supplanted trapping as their main livelihood.

Mold Cuts Cost Of Producing Alcohol

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Department of Agriculture has found a way to cut the cost of producing grain alcohol—substituting the use of mold for the traditional malt process.

The Department says a plant using 12,000 bushels of grain a day could save more than $1,000 daily by shifting to the new process. The estimated saving was calculated on the basis of commercial scale experiments at an Iowa distillery.

The new product, known as "fungal amylase," was worked out by department scientists at the northern regional research laboratory at Peoria, Ill.

Officials say the mold enzyme has no adverse effect on distilling operations or on the quality of the alcohol produced. Furthermore, they say by-product livestock feeds obtained are practically identical with those derived from the usual malt process.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Plant Industry, smoking does not dull the taste.

SPRINGTIME IS SARNAK TIME

after a long Winter your resistance is low, old troublesome symptoms are apt to bother you

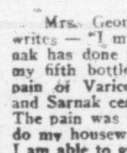

Rheumatic, arthritic, neuritic pains, sciatica, backache, bilious dizzy spells, some kidney and liver and stomach upsets, indigestion, heartburn, bloating, getting up nights, lack of energy, nutritional anemia and nervousness and sleeplessness due to these symptoms.

READ BELOW WHAT

SARNAK IS DOING FOR OTHERS

Mrs. Phil Annweiler, 225 Avenue E. South Saskatoon, Sask., writes — "For the last fifteen years I have suffered greatly with Rheumatic pain and pain rising from a Gall Bladder condition. Although I have taken many forms of analgesic, nothing I took seemed to help me. Just recently I read about Sarnak and bought my first bottle. I am thankful to say that Sarnak has been a great help to me right from the very first. It relieves my pain as nothing else I have taken."

Mrs. George Weston, Selkirk, Man., writes — "I must thank you for what Sarnak has done for me. I am now starting my fifth bottle. I have suffered with the pain of Varicose Veins for a long time and Sarnak certainly has relieved my pain. The pain was so bad that I was unable to do my housework, but since taking Sarnak I am able to get about as usual."

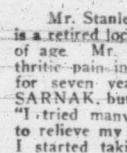

Mr. M. R. Sereda of Beaverdale, Saskatchewan, writes — "For quite some time I suffered with Neuritic and Arthritic pains in my left leg and shoulder. I couldn't move my leg or walk during my last attack for the pain. I started taking Sarnak and after my first bottle the pain was relieved and I can now get around and do some work. I am going to continue with Sarnak for I know it will benefit me."

Mr. Gustav Roemer, 138 Ahrens St. W., Kitchener, Ontario, is over 70 years of age and is an engineer who suffered on and off for 16 long years with upset stomach, bilious dizzy spells and indigestion. Mr. Roemer started taking SARNAK and wrote us as follows: "SARNAK brought me relief within a few days. My poor health had made me nervous and almost afraid to eat. I can truly say now that SARNAK relieved my stomach upset and nervousness. I'm grateful for what SARNAK has done for me."

Mrs. F. Plouffe, Point St. Charles, Montreal, Quebec, is 60 years of age and had suffered with rheumatic pain in the knees and sharp pain in the small of the back. After Mrs. Plouffe had used just one bottle of SARNAK she wrote: "It was in such pain I could hardly do my work and had trouble getting my proper rest. The first bottle of SARNAK relieved my pain; allowed me to do my housework. I don't know how to thank you for what SARNAK has done for me."

Mr. Stanley P. Dexter, Deep Cove, B.C. is a retired locomotive engineer and 64 years of age. Mr. Dexter had suffered from arthritic pain in both knees and his left hip for seven years until he started to take SARNAK, but here's what Mr. Dexter says: "I tried many different kinds of medicine to relieve my pain but nothing helped until I started taking SARNAK. I got relief from the first day with SARNAK and continued taking it because of the good it did me."

Mrs. C. E. Lyons, Burdett, Alberta, is now 74 years of age and has enjoyed good health, but a few months ago Mrs. Lyons started to suffer from rheumatic and arthritic pain in her knees and legs. Mrs. Lyons tried several things but nothing helped. Here is what she wrote after taking SARNAK: "After taking SARNAK for two months I am free of debilitating arthritic pain. Right from the first two or three doses SARNAK helped me. Now of course, I wouldn't be without it."

WARNING—Due to the fact we are committed to ship over 100,000 bottles of Sarnak per week to Western Canada, we ask that you only buy one bottle of Sarnak at a time when needed.

Wild Camels New Pest To Plague Australia Desert

SYDNEY, Australia. (CP)—Thousands of wild camels roam the parched wilds of Central Australia.

Scorned by men who only a generation ago used them to explore the rugged interior, these massive carriers are becoming a dangerous nuisance.

Like the donkey, whose tiny hoofmarks dot most of South Australia and the Northern Territory, the camel has had his day in Australia. Zoos and the odd prospectors roving for the "dead heart" of the continent are the only contenders for their services.

Camels have inhabited Australia for less than a century up the "outback" country. They were imported to Australia in 1860 for the Burke and Wills expedition which crossed Australia from north to south.

Since then their broad feet have pioneered scores of the famous overland trails. From the towering Flinders Range of South Australia to the Kimberleys in the far north they were used, and thrived in country where no other beast would have lived.

Now in the same areas to which they first brought the white man, hundreds are shot yearly as pests.

Motor vehicles and trains are traveling the old camel tracks in a fraction of the time and at a fraction of the cost.

But the camel had—and still has—some very economical features. He can live for impossible periods on anything from cactus bush to an optical illusion, can carry a 200-pound rider 60 or 70 miles a day for seven or eight successive days, or shift 1,200 pounds of grand piano or anything else you like to pile on his hump. In his way he is unbeatable.

Most white people dislike camels. They smell abominably, are prone to savage humans and have a reputation for treachery.

But in Marree (South Australia) where even today the whites live in one half of the town and the Africans in the other, you will still hear many a rollicking story of their halcyon days.

With these patient beasts the Afghan teamsters carried all the requirements of many of the inland stations and settlements until well in the 1930's.

The camel's ferocity and treachery have won him universal dislike even from those who admire his great strength and stamina. He has been responsible for many deaths and injuries among the teamsters.

In his now wild state the camel is very dangerous to hunters, except the absolute expert. Apart from the fact that no one wants him, he is likely to remain undisturbed until he becomes such a menace that destruction is imperative. And, so fast is he breeding, that that won't be long now.

The other animal mainly responsible for the settlement of Australia's arid areas is the amiable donkey.

The need to preserve precious feed for cattle has resulted in ruthless "donkey hunts" in recent years, but countless wild "mokes" still roam the crags and valleys.

Now the great wagons they hauled stand rotting in the station yards — curiosities for the tourists.

BROWN BOOBY'S STORY

"Share it! Share it! Share it!" screamed Gullie the Laughing Gull, so called because often he sounds as if he were laughing. He didn't sound that way now. No, sir, he didn't sound the least bit as if he were laughing. There was no laughter whatever in his voice now. He sounded angry, impatient and threatening. "Share it! Share it! Share it!" he screamed as he flew above Grandpa Pelican, who was on the water with his great bill, and the handy bag attached to it, filled with small fishes he had just caught for his breakfast.

Grandpa Pelican didn't want to share his breakfast. No sir, he didn't want to share it. He wanted that breakfast, all of it, for himself. Brown Booby and Mrs. Brown Booby, long-time neighbors of Grandpa Pelican, were swimming nearby. They had already breakfasted. "Grandpa Pelican might better open his bill and share that breakfast with Gullie at once because he will have to in the end. That is what comes of trading bills," said Brown Booby.

"What do you mean? Who traded bills?" demanded Mrs. Booby.

Brown Booby chuckled. "Haven't you heard the story, my dear?" said he, and when Mrs. Booby shook her head he continued.

"Way, way back in the days when the world was young, so the story goes, great-great-ever-so-great-grandfather Gull, the first of the Gull family, had been given a big bill, a very big bill, although he was no bigger than Gullie is now. One of his neighbors was great-great-ever-so-great-grandfather Pelican, who was as big as Grandpa Pelican of today is, but who had been given a small bill. Now old Mr. Gull didn't like his bill at all. It was altogether too big. It was clumsy. He couldn't manage it well. It held too big a fish for him to swallow whole, or too many small fishes to be eaten at one time. He not only didn't need such a big bill but it was in his way, a bother, a nuisance. It was in his way when flying.

"On the other hand old Mr. Pelican felt that his bill was too small, much too small. He could catch and carry only one fish at a time and that a small one. To get enough to eat he had to spend most of his time fishing. For a long time he had looked with envy at the great bill of Mr. Gull. 'That is the kind of bill I should have,' thought Mr. Pelican, not knowing that at the very same time

Mr. Gull was envying him his small bill.

"One day they got to talking together and each found out how the other felt. Great-great-ever-so-great-grandfather Pelican suggested that they go to Old Mother Nature, tell her their troubles and how they felt, and ask her to swap bills for them, giving Mr. Gull's big bill to Mr. Pelican, and Mr. Pelican's small bill to Mr. Gull. Great-great-ever-so-great-grandfather Gull thought this over and it seemed to him like a good idea, a very good idea.

"We'll do it," said Mr. Gull, 'if you will agree to one thing.'

"What is that?" asked Mr. Pelican.

"You are a better fisherman than am I, and with my big bill you will be able to catch many more fish than I can. So you must agree that when you have made a good catch you must share it with me if I have no luck fishing and am hungry," said Mr. Gull.

"Old Mr. Pelican agreed to this and they went to Old Mother Nature. She listened to the story of their troubles and what they wished done, and thought it a good idea. So she changed the bills for them and both were happy. For a time all went well. Then Mr. Gull found that it was much easier to have Mr. Pelican catch fish for him than to catch them for himself and more and more often he demanded a share of what Mr. Pelican caught. And so it has been between the Gulls and the Pelicans ever since that long ago day, when the world was young. Listen!" concluded Brown Booby.

"Share it! Share it! Share it!" screamed Gullie the Laughing Gull without laughter.

Grandpa Pelican did.

Value Of Insurance Told Office Management Group

No business, large or small, can afford to ignore the necessity of having adequate insurance covering the various phases of its operation, Graham Blyth, salaries and insurance manager for B.C. Electric in Vancouver, told members of the Victoria Chapter of the National Office Management Association.

Mr. Blyth said many firms without insurance were unaware of the risks they faced.

The speaker explained there was no one insurance program suitable for all businesses, but observed there were so many schemes available, there was little difficulty involved finding one suitable for each particular concern.

Before deciding on a suitable coverage plan, Mr. Blyth said, thought should be given to surveying risks to which the industry was exposed; investigating various schemes and selecting a reputable insurance broker.

MACARTHUR NEW TV CHAMP

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Telecasts of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's return to the United States made the Kefauver committee look like a road show, a television survey firm said today.

An estimated 4,122,500 Californians watched the return and San Francisco's tumultuous reception. The survey indicated that 90.3 of the San Francisco sets were tuned in Tuesday night for the general's arrival, while the Senate hearings never drew more than 26.4 per cent.

Coasts May Get Break In Freights

OTTAWA (CP)—The Atlantic provinces and the west likely will be given freight-rate concessions in the railways' impending application for a new increase in tolls.

The carriers are expected to propose implementing recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation calling for easing of the impact of rate increases on long-haul traffic—mainly in the western and seaboard provinces—and on basic commodities such as farm products.

The railways are understood to be considering how this plan—a major departure from the pattern of post-war increases—can be worked out for the new rate case they will be placing before the Board of Transport Commissioners in a few weeks. They will be asked for higher rates—not yet specified—to cover the cost of a short work week becoming effective June 1. This is in addition to an application for a 5-per-cent increase, now under consideration by the board to cover the cost of wage increases granted last year.

Oak Bay Art Club has a limited number of vacancies. Outdoor summer sketching meetings are held and indoor evening sessions during the winter. Anyone interested in membership should phone G 7676 or E 8885.

OUT FOR TALK, WOMAN FINDS MONKEY BURGLAR ON ICEBOX

SEATTLE (UP)—Just plain monkey business—that's what it was.

Mrs. W. R. Curtis left her front door open a bit when she went outside to talk with her neighbor Wednesday. When she returned she found her kitchen in a mess.

Sitting on top of the refrigerator and calmly munching a banana was the cause of the disorderly condition—a monkey. Upon surveying the damage, Mrs. Curtis discovered the monkey had rearranged some of the furniture, sampled the food, and laid her newly-washed clothes on the ground to dry.

"From now on," says Mrs. Curtis, "I'll close my doors."

"Sparrow in the tree-top, Sparrow in the tree-top"—and it's bright and cheerful when the little guineas sing it. It might even make some people sympathetic toward the sparrow, "scared o' going home because it's too darned late."

Not me, though. I'd be 'ckled to death if a few other birds took their night life a little more seriously. It might keep them quiet longer in the morning and an honest guy could sleep at least until the alarm went off. Around our place there are just too many early birds, and I'm beginning to feel like the worm. What with the daybreak political rally of seagulls and crows, there isn't any peace in our district any more.

IF ST. FRANCIS of Assisi had left behind the routine of talking to the birds, I'd preach at 'em, but plenty. What I'd tell the gulls and blackbirds would blister them more than an old-fashioned hell-and-brimstone sermon. Sorehead? Sure. Who wouldn't be, with those glaucous-winged raucous voiced harpies haggling over shellfish any time after 5 a.m.? Somebody ought to tell George Warren what he can do with those birds.

I'll get over it, of course. I'll be a nature lover even if I die of insomnia. But I can't preach at these birds, they've done a little propaganda work to put me on the Daylight Saving bandwagon. Ever since the youngsters got enough perversity to want to stay up at night, we've been pretty sour on Daylight Saving. After 'all, adults should have some part of the day in peaceful quiet.

People who haven't children say it's all a matter of training the child. "You can put them to bed and teach them to stay there," these non-parental adults tell us. We used to be a little provoked by that line.

NOT ANY MORE, though. We just laugh like an old Ford with a broken muffler and repeat their statement in question form, "You can put them to bed and teach them to stay there?" Maybe, but not us. We've been licked too often on that deal.

Now, with the stretching evenings and the early morning gull chorus, the day's disturbing at both ends. Life grows hideous. That's why we've joined the Daylight Saving Brigade. If we're going to have noise, we'd like to bunch it in one period. Daylight Saving will bring us headaches at night, but it'll keep the gulls in mute darkness another hour. It's an expensive concession, but it is a concession.

So we'll go around saying how nice fast time is for the young people and office workers. It's a harmless bit of hypocrisy. Pay no attention to the mutter that follows it about seagulls. We're quite happy to share an extra hour's sleep with the birds. We're awake with them in the morning—maybe not bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, but we're awake. We can't help it.

IN OUR HOUSE, an orange has always been an orange—except when a pencil was stuck through it slightly, off the perpendicular to teach the kids about the movement of the earth. Still, when the same kids came in and asked for an orange apiece, they got one each. It didn't matter how big or how small, one was the allotment. That's important if you study the present cost of living.

We always thought the same reasoning applied to everybody. Maybe you'd like the bigger oranges. They usually have thicker skins and they're easier to peel. But when the budget was running low, you bought a dozen of the smaller type, and the kids still got an orange when they asked for one.

Gather For Talks On Water And Snow

pher E. Webb, district engineer, B.C. Water Resources Branch, Vancouver; E. H. Tredcroft, comptroller of B.C. Water Rights, Victoria, and Homer J. Stockwell, general chairman of snow conference, Fort Collins, Colorado.

TURBAN HIS MAIN WORRY AFTER CRASH

DUNCAN—A collision of a train loaded with logs and a lumber-laden truck had an amusing sequel at the Copper Canyon crossing on the old Island Highway at Chemainus.

The weight of the slow-moving train rolled the giant lumber truck over on its side. When the dust cleared, a head appeared out of the truck window, and a dazed Hindu driver pulled himself clear.

After a brief look at his wrecked truck, he scrambled back into the cab and reappeared after a moment with a turban cloth in his hand. Reunited with his precious possession, he walked away unscratched from the scene of destruction.

The truck driver appears in court Saturday to face a charge of failing to stop.

Kinsmen Head Dies

K. E. "Ken" Pierce, of Montreal, national president of the Kinsman Association, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon in Montreal, according to word received by friends here today. Pierce had visited Victoria last fall and had many friends here.

'I GUESS THAT'S ME'

Irish Heir, 84, Here, Fears Huge Tax Levy

"I guess that's me," said grey-haired, 84-year-old Charles Wark, Westholme Hotel, who was informed today that trustees of the estate of Jane Amelia Wark of Londonderry, Ireland, were searching for an heir to £600 ($1,780).

Mr. Wark said the Irish spinster who left £15,857 largely to Bible societies and £600 to such children or child of the late John Wark of Victoria was a niece of his father.

A SURPRISE TO HIM "My father was John Wark," said the genial old gentleman between puffs of his pipe. "Frankly, I hadn't known he had a niece in Ireland."

Mr. Wark said he was going to write to the trustees to inform them of his relationship to the Irish spinster. He felt, however, by the time tax duties had been imposed on the estate and lawyers had taken their fees, the small bequest would be reduced considerably.

"You can't do much with that amount of money," he said. "I can't take a trip as I'm a little too old for that."

Mr. Wark, a painting contractor, worked at the Legislative Buildings for several years. He counts former Premier John Hart as one of his personal friends, as well as other past premiers.

His father was a pioneer Victorian who died here in 1908. Wark Street in the Hillside district was named after him. Mr. Wark was cousin of Simon Fraser Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia from 1928-1933.

Rain-Maker Is Here To Address Conference

The man to put rain-making on a scientific basis came to Victoria today to explain his work to more than 100 government officials of British Columbia and eight American states vitally concerned with rain and snow problems.

Tall, youthful-looking Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer, of Schenectady, N.Y., is scheduled tomorrow to address a joint meeting of the Columbia River Basin Water Forecast Committee and the Western Snow Conference at the Empress Hotel.

Dr. Schaefer admitted that while he conceived six years ago the idea of making rain by seeding clouds with dry ice and silver iodide he actually has yet to make any rain himself.

"I work in the laboratory," he confided. "Others do the rain-making."

1,000 TESTS About 1,000 rain-making tests, have been made so far. Results have been "very successful," he said.

Employed by General Electric Co. for the last 29 years, Dr. Schaefer has been associated with the G.E. research department for the last 20 years. He made his discovery about scientific rain-making in 1946.

"We had been asked to produce smoke generators for screening troops," he recalled. "When that was done we were given the problem of aircraft icing as a project."

"Working on that I found icing of aircraft occurred because of super-cool clouds. It was while studying why clouds super-cooled that I discovered how to make rain."

DR. VINCENT J. SCHAEFER

CAN PREVENT HAIL Dr. Schaefer said that not only had his studies shown him how to make rain but how to prevent thunder, lightning and hail.

The 44-year-old researcher said he is currently working on a weather project for the U.S. Signal Corps and the Office of Naval Research.

He feels there should be government control of rain-making and that there will be a need for international agreements.

Dr. Schaefer feels too that as the art of rain-making is developed there will be a need for licensing those engaged in the practice in order to protect the public from unscrupulous operators.

Bombers Entertain

Residents along Victoria's waterfront were entertained this morning with a bombing practice by R.C.A.F. Lancasters, in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Using a target towed by a surface vessel, the big-four-engined planes dropped small practice bombs about six miles off shore between Trial Island and Race Rocks.

City Outside Staff Gets Pay Increase

280 Employees Win 12½-Cent Boost From Conciliation Group

An across-the-board increase of 12½ cents an hour, retroactive to Jan. 2, was awarded approximately 280 outside staff employees of the city in a unanimous report handed down today by a conciliation board.

Approximating a $21 a month increase per man, the award will cost the city roughly $73,000.

In handing down the award the board comprising Percy Gomery, chairman; Herbert W. Davey, K.C., city nominee and Roy Whittle, union nominee, stated:

"We feel it should be noted that our task was rendered easier by the tolerant and businesslike attitude adopted by the spokesmen for both of the disputant parties."

WYATT PRAISED

"Mr. Wyatt, we feel especially took a position of genuine understanding of the union's problems."

Union requests for water-repellant clothing allowance and a 40-hour week for bridge operators were not recommended.

The board granted the union's request for unemployment insurance coverage and noted that City Manager Cecil C. Wyatt "readily allowed the right of such employees to claim inclusion in insurable (and insured) groups."

UNION REQUEST

The union had asked that wages be brought up to the Vancouver level, which would have approximated an increase of $30 a month per man. The board reported:

"In our view the three cents per hour increase in wages offered by the city does not meet present-day demands. On the other hand, we are scarcely less willing to accept as a positive guide the wages Vancouver agrees to pay its servants."

The board felt the city's submission that wages paid by municipalities actually bordering Victoria should be the guide of the board was considered "perhaps just as reasonable."

CONTINUING COMMITTEE

The award calls for a continuing committee comprising city and staff representatives to consider matters of classification and adjustments.

The new agreement consolidates classifications from approximately 40 pay grades to nine.

James Jones Rites Friday Afternoon

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Friday at Sands Mortuary Chapel for James Jones, native of Piddington, Eng., who died here Tuesday. He was 84 years of age.

A well-known plastering contractor, he had resided here for 62 years. Two of the buildings that he worked on during his career were the Legislative Buildings and the Empress Hotel. He retired about 10 years ago.

He is survived by a brother, George Jones, who lives at 1480 Lang Street.

Officiating at the service will be Canon A. E. Greenhalgh, and interment will take place in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Beauty queen Catherine Haston works in coffee shop.

Beauty Approves New 'Miss Canada' Contest

Tall, dark and lovely Miss Catherine Haston, 20, "Miss Edinburgh" of 1949, who is currently living here, today said she agrees with designers of the 1951 "Miss Canada Pageant," who have taken the bathing suit feature out of the forthcoming beauty contest.

Miss Haston, who came here last Nov. 26 on a visit from her native Scotland, declared:

"It's a good thing. This new idea is much fairer. The other type of contest puts practically all the emphasis on face and figure, and a girl's beauty depends on much more than that."

BIT HOMESICK

Miss Haston, who now resides at 1135 Wychbury Avenue, Esquimalt, admitted that already she is a bit homesick for Scotland, but plans to stick at her job in a Gorge Road cafe for a while longer.

"I'm saving up for that return trip now," she revealed.

Miss Haston, who is wondering whether she would be eligible for the "Miss Canada Pageant," said she thought someone should sponsor a Victoria contest and send this city's loveliest girl on to the Canada event to qualify for "Miss America."

The "Miss Canada Pageant" will be held in Hamilton, Ont., in July. S. J. Bibby, president of the pageant's board of directors, has written to Mayor Percy George asking the pageant be endorsed here by having a local contest.

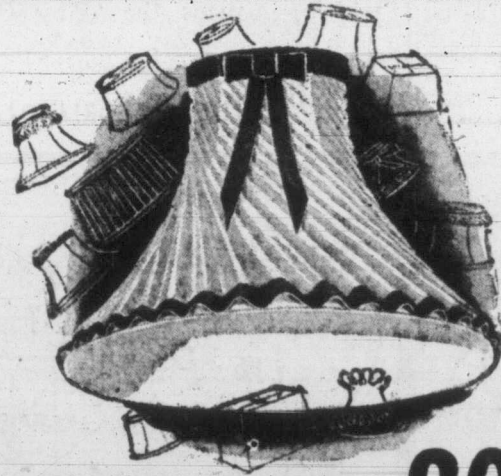

Bibby earlier revealed that the wearing of bathing suits as a basis for judging was being eliminated this year so that Canadian girls could compete "on the basis of talent, intelligence, poise, personality, charm and beauty."

Margaret Cunningham, 644 Cormorant, charged with obtaining money for forging sales slips at a local department store, was remanded to April 23.

Hector M. Vogler, 923 Kings, pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunken driving, and was remanded to April 30 for trial. He was represented by James J. Proudfoot.

Got A World Of Talent And About As Much Lotion!

By PENNY SAVER

Have never delved into the world spinning planets... if that's what they do up there all by themselves... or with twinkling, winking stars, or for that matter with that big blob of cheese they call the moon. But I did have some fun with a planet-shaped hand lotion container this morning.

Come to think of it, the globular shape container represents a world... of beauty lotion, that is. Pale aqua shade liquid pours from the squeeze-type bottle into your velvet paws. An added at-motif, there was cleansing cream, also in plastic bottle, night facial stick and a real little eye-catcher, a purse dispenser for hand lotion. Cutest little trick this side of a circus act.

In smart, gold-finish the dispenser resembles an oversized lipstick case. Within the walls of the case there sits a week's supply of lotion easily emitted by giving the point of the dispenser a tap, tap. When the wee thing is emptied unscrew the top and pour in a new supply.

Prices on all this newness, stacks up to something like $1.50 for the dispenser, and same price on the bottle of lotion, and cleansing cream. For the night stick, 50 pennies more.

Oh, say! Found a supply of those new metal plate hangers that have been in such demand this spring. With wire clamps to fit firmly over your treasured piece of china and tiny springs to allow stretching to the desired width, the hangers sell at 60 pennies each.

Now it was a lovely if I ever did see one! The derdest, cutest little china bottle with a baby blue and white china flower tucked in the laces. A gift for the new bambino or bambina. With a few fresh posies in its frame, the bottle makes a delightful ornament. Price tag says $1.25.

When storing cookies, keep only one kind in a jar at a time to prevent mingling of flavors.

traction to any vanity table top and $1.50 to buy. In this new shipment of creams and lotions, with the new world

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Widowed Woman Weighs Having Affair To Check Emotional Frustration

Dear Mary Haworth: I am anxious to have your comment on my situation. I am a woman 38, recently widowed after 18 years of happy marriage. My marriage included a healthy sex relationship with my husband, which was a wholesome, and in fact, a necessary factor in maintaining my emotional health and mental growth, as I think all psychologists will agree.

But now I am meeting men who aren't exactly in the marriageable category, due to being either already married, or too young for me, emotionally or in years; or because they are confirmed bachelors, too set in their ways to be good husband material. Would you say that a woman in my position should totally abstain from all sex relationships until she finds a man suitable to marry—a quest which might take months or years? Or is it feasible for a woman to enter a compromise arrangement, on a liaison basis, to tide her through sex hunger while looking for the right helpmeet?

Please give me an intelligent answer, geared to the mature mind.—H. C.

LOOKING FOR GOAT NOT GUIDANCE HERE

Dear H. C.: You are storming about a purely personal problem of conflict between desire and fear. And when you ask, in challenging tone, for a discussion of sex mores (as they are, or should be) geared to the mature mind, you really want somebody in authority, as it were, to take responsibility off you, for doing what you'd like to do, yet feel that society would condemn—namely, have an affair, if you dared.

In my opinion, you'll marry the sooner if you don't resort to affairs to tide you through a wayward quest for another helpmeet. And by going straight you'll probably attract more wholesome characters than if you are available for unlicensed arrangements in the interim of widowhood.—M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of the Times.

Report Given At Musical Arts Meeting Shows Irene Byatt On Way To Success

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Annual meeting, Victoria Musical Arts Society, was held Wednesday night in the Newstead Hall.

Secretary's report, read by Mrs. J. Ingram Smith, revealed that a constructive season's program had been completed. The society had concentrated on recitals featuring local artists and the encouragement of student members. Report concluded with a special tribute to Dr. Roger Manning for his untiring work as president.

Financial statement, given by H. F. Bailey, showed that approximately $2,000 had been raised and that the society has made final payment on its grand piano. There is a $280 balance in the Scholarship Fund.

Reports were presented for junior, intermediate and young adult branches of the society by John Sawyer, Ann McFadyen, Jacqueline Sawyer and Joy Stanford.

HER OWN CONCERT

In his address, Dr. Manning gave an encouraging report on progress of Irene Byatt, young Victoria contralto who is now studying in London, England, under Roy Henderson.

Miss Byatt, who has benefited from the society's scholarship fund to the extent of $1,360, has only been overseas four months, but she has already had her first important engagement at Grimsby, singing in "Elijah," under Alec Redshaw. On April 21, the Victoria girl will give her own recital in St. Cecilia House in London.

Recently, Miss Byatt sang for England's great contralto, Kathleen Ferrier, and was told by Miss Ferrier that her voice had a great future. She also has auditions arranged with Sir Stewart White of Covent Garden opera, Sir Malcolm Sargent and Dr. Darke and Dr. Cook.

In addition, her teacher, Mr. Henderson, is entering her for the coveted Queen's prize of $100. It is Mr. Henderson's opinion that Miss Byatt will be financially independent by the fall. Dr. Manning stated that, more will be done for talented students as time goes on and larger sums of money are available. He pointed out that the civic grant is devoted to scholarships alone. Dr. Manning also outlined possible programs for next season, including a Scandinavian night, a Mozart night and several other interesting ventures.

Presentation of a crystal and silver relish dish to Mrs. P. E. Corby, who is retiring from the executive this year, was made by Mrs. William Ellis.

The following officers were elected for the 1951-52 season: President, Dr. R. J. Manning; first vice-president, W. H. Wilson; second vice-president, Mrs. Wm. Ellis; secretary, Mrs. J. Ingram Smith; treasurer, Miss May Adamson; program, Dr.

Manning, Mrs. G. Phillips, Dr. K. M. King and Edgar Holway; membership, Mrs. W. Ellis, Mrs. G. Brand and Capt. W. Ord; advisors to junior and intermediate branches, Mrs. C. H. Bacon, Mrs. G. Brand, Mrs. J. Ingram Smith, Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Mrs. C. C. Wyatt. Mr. Graham Steed is also a member of the board.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

With spring clothes blooming in every window, in the most tantalizing way, it is well to stop and think things over.

Few women can afford to dash in and buy anything which happens to strike their fancy at the time, and then discard it when they get home if they do not like it.

Most of us have to wear what we buy, whether we like it or not. Yes, even whether our husbands or friends or relatives like it or not.

Many rules have been given for shopping wisely. You have been told to purchase things which can be combined in different ways, and you have been warned not to shop when you are tired, all of which is good advice. Has anyone ever told you not to shop when you feel middle-aged? I'll bet they haven't, but I am calling that to your attention today because I believe it is important.

Do not think of yourself as a middle-aged woman when you shop. If you do you are doomed to failure. In one of two ways. Either you will think of yourself as middle-aged in a dreary sort of way and will buy clothes which are dreary and make you look years older than you are—or you will think of yourself as middle-aged, and fight it, and will end up with ruffles and furbelows, lacking good line and color.

When you shop, think of yourself as an individual. Think of your figure (and if that makes you feel older, do something about it), think of your coloring and select things which really flatter you and make you look more attractive as an individual—but not because of birthdays. You simply never win if you think in terms of birthdays, not at any age! When you are 16 you are trying to look older. When you are 40 you are trying to look younger. I do not know what happens a long time after that, but I think by the time you are 50, you just should not give a darn about birthdays.

By that I mean that you should no longer be hemmed in by preconceived ideas about how you should look and act at any given age. You should have, by then discovered yourself as an individual, one who has personal tastes, one who is ready to branch out as an individual—you yourself! You should have more know-how, more understanding, more charm, more real beauty. You should think of yourself as one who can be more bewitching than you ever could have been in lovely but callow youth.

Maybe you have let the pounds slip up on you, maybe you have become discouraged by the struggle, maybe you have lost sight of yourself as a person and therefore just concentrated on birthdays.

Well, forget it! You can't overcome most of the physical handicaps to beauty and, anyway, beauty is much deeper than a regular nose or a lineless face (idiots have that). Beauty is a combination of personality, plus a good figure, health, a love of life, the nerve to be yourself, plus a few tricks with which "Why Grow Old?" will help you.

Toimie—At recent meeting of Toimie P.T.A. convention reports were given by Mesdames P. G. Odynsky, A. Bailey, G. Wells and W. Quinette. It was decided to hold a tea on May 16 in the school with Mesdames G. Wells and T. H. Fletcher, conveners. Mrs. C. E. Giles presided.

Hospital Auxiliary Founder Attends Doll Shower, Tea

Occasion was a doll shower yesterday afternoon for the annual doll bazaar sponsored by the auxiliary in the autumn. Miss Gladys Irving, assisted by president Mrs. Ronald Newell, Mrs. R. A. ## Montreal, Vancouver Share Interest In City Wedding

Montreal, where the groom formerly made his home, and this province, claimed equal interest in the marriage last week in First Baptist Church, when Muriel Irene Marie Bennett repeated nuptial vows with Ray Roland Bolger.

Rev. G. H. Easter united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. M. Bennett, Victoria Drive, Vancouver, and son of late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bolger, formerly of Montreal.

For the late afternoon ceremony the bride chose an ankle-length gown of cloud-like white nylon net designed with exquisite Chantilly lace creating a slim bodice to point up the bouffant skirt. Her hat was a tricorn of Milan straw touched with frezias and veiling. Large orchids and fern tied with ribbon were worn as a corsage bouquet. Mrs. H. E. Bennett gave her daughter in marriage.

Matron of honor Mrs. H. G. Bennett wore a French-designed hat with her gown of palest blue lace net. Matching gloves and American Beauty rosebuds on corsage completed her ensemble. Best man was H. G. Bennett. At a reception at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bennett, Freeman Road, the bride's table was set with three-tier bridal cake, hand crocheted lace cloth, and candles in century-old silver holders.

Hawaii is the honeymoon destination of the newlyweds. For traveling the bride changed into a serge tailleur with picture hat and stole.

Vancouver is the future home of the new Mr. and Mrs. Bolger.

New York Fringes 20-Year High Zone

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

At one time yesterday it looked as if the Dow Jones Industrial average on Wall Street would reach a new high for 20 years. The previous high recorded in February of this year was successfully passed one hour before the close of the session, but in the last hour a third of a point was lopped off and left the average, just fractionally below the previous best.

This recovery by the New York market, following several attempts to swing over to a bearish trend, suggests that stock prices may yet go considerably higher. The fears expressed that the swing-over from domestic to defence production would affect 1951 profits of many big corporations do not appear to be materializing.

On the Canadian exchanges the situation is rather different. They have all along been running rather ahead of New York in price advances and the average yield of top-class Canadian common stocks is now considerably lower than those in the States.

The New York prices, therefore, might rise considerably before a corresponding upward correction on Toronto and Montreal becomes necessary.

At the same time the outlook for Canadian industry is still bright. The government's decision yesterday to control pulp as an essential material is ample indication that the demand in this industry far exceeds the supply position.

Even in Victoria, which has been on the outer fringe of defence activity so far I am told that a number of smaller firms are so inundated with contracts for defence projects that they are accumulating a massive backlog of other orders.

Coupling these facts with rising costs of living prices, brings no evidence that there is any immediate halting of the inflationary trend, and so long as that continues the market value of common stocks will not decrease. The trend indeed will be the other way, not only on Wall Street but on the Canadian exchanges as well.

There's one thing about listening to Lloyd Detweiler, commissioner of B.C. Hospital Insurance. He puts things so nicely that you want to rush out and pay your next premium well in advance.

The commission makes the interesting claim that he has the biggest billing list of any organization in B.C. His customers are between 400,000 and 500,000. Mr. Detweiler and his staff have quite a job keeping his filing index up to date. His particular bete noir was one fellow who managed to take 28 jobs all in one year.

Revelations of a gang that might come right out of one of the more lurid comic strips, are made by Beland Honderich, financial editor of the Toronto Star, who claims that there is a sinister financial organization with possible underworld connection working at the root of recent stock promotions.

Mr. Honderich claims that the head of the organization is an American now resident in Toronto, and that the group with influential political friends operates through "respectable" brokerage firm fronts.

"While the operations of the group and its strong-arm men are well-known on Bay Street (Toronto) to discuss its activities because of threats, and in at least one case, actual violence," he says.

Already the Ontario Securities Commission has cracked down on firms suspected of "fronting" the group, and plans are now being devised to take further preventive measures.

As the gang trades at long range for safety British Columbia is in the danger zone and investors are warned to be on their guard against dealing by telephone or letter with investment firms or brokers of whom they have no personal knowledge.

The safe way in such cases is to consult a local dealer, who will be only too willing to investigate.

VICTORIANS GIVE TRAFFIC VIEWS

Parking, Bus, Light Schemes Urged To Ease Congestion

Victorians today welcomed an announcement from Robert W. Doble—assigned to make a city traffic survey—that he wanted suggestions from citizens before he drew up his report.

A Victoria Daily Times' survey showed Victoria residents clearly realize the most pressing problems and in general have a good conception how many of them can be remedied.

"The parking situation is our biggest problem," thought George Thackray, 2885 Parkview. "The ideal way of overcoming the congestion down-town would be to have underground parking facilities as they have in San Francisco. But I doubt whether that could be done here."

Mr. Thackray thought study might be given to having cars parked diagonally on some of the wider streets, instead of parallel.

Mr. Thackray pointed out part of Victoria's traffic problem was

Union Agent Replies To Criticism

Robert McCulloch, representative of the milk drivers' union, was called upon Wednesday night to give his reasons before the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, for having appeared before the B.C. Milk Board at a hearing of arguments on increasing the price of milk.

McCulloch spoke in answer to criticism directed at him by the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The electrical workers asked the council to censure McCulloch for supporting an employer move for a price increase, believing members of his union could only derive wage benefits if such an increase was granted. Mr. McCulloch denied he had joined in any bid for a hike in milk prices. He said he had appeared before the board to explain that should an increase be granted the distributor, that consideration should be given to the drivers.

He said that when milk was increased two cents a quart in price, the farmers received half of the increase and the distributor the other half.

Two-thirds of the cent that went to the distributor, he pointed out, was passed along as benefits to drivers.

The censure motion was defeated.

Vancouver, B.C.

due to the fact one out of every four families on the island owns a car where the average across Canada is one car for every seven families.

Wally Robertson, 848 Reed, agreed that parking was one of the most important problems. He thought some relief could be provided by motorists.

SPACE WASTED

"I've noticed time and time again," he said, "where cars have been parked in a line with about three-quarters of a car length between each one. There's no need for all that waste space. Cars parked one behind the other only need three feet in front and three feet behind."

Synchronization of traffic lights and establishment of some one-way streets were suggestions made by Ivor Fuller, 1534 Edgeware.

He said traffic lights on Douglas and Government Streets appeared to work independently of one another and that it was common for motorists using the streets to have to wait the full red-light time at each intersection.

Mr. Fuller observed that to most U.S. cities he had visited, lights were synchronized for the benefit of through traffic, and that signs were erected advising motorists as to what speed to drive to proceed right through.

Mr. Fuller also observed that buses slowed the movement of car traffic considerably with their many stops in town. He felt buses should not stop on the far side of intersections, and pointed out that in many instances buses were required to stop at a crossing for a red stop light and then again immediately across the street to load and unload passengers.

"Bus stops cause one of our biggest bottle necks," he concluded. Jack Palmer, 1412 Quadra Street, was another to hold buses at least partly responsible for down-town traffic snarls.

"There should not be buses on either Douglas or Government," he maintained.

Mr. Palmer suggested bus terminals could be established at each end of town, with buses for south and southeast districts leaving from one and buses for all other districts leaving from the other.

"The up-island buses could leave from the north end of town," Mr. Palmer said. "There is no reason why they should have to go through all the heavy down-town traffic."

DOCTOR SAYS

By Dr. Edwin P. Jordan

Several good questions about Meniere's disease have been sent in by Mrs. W. Others, no doubt, are interested in the same things. "How," she asks, "can a specialist tell that a person has Meniere's disease?" First there are the symptoms of dizzy spells, ringing in the ears, and slight loss of hearing.

Then there are a number of special tests including spinning in a rotating chair and testing with tuning forks. In fact the special methods and equipment available are such that an accurate diagnosis can almost always be made.

Another thing Mrs. W. asks is whether Meniere's disease is related to a brain tumor. The answer to this is "usually not." Once in a while a brain tumor produces symptoms similar to those of Meniere's disease but this is the cause only in a small proportion of those who suffer with this condition.

Then Mrs. W. inquires about treatment. The majority of cases are caused by the accumulation of fluid in the inner portion of the ear (sometimes spoken of as dropsy). If the amount of fluid can be lessened the symptoms tend to improve.

Homes Of 33 Policemen In Gotham Raided

NEW YORK (UP)—The homes of 33 policemen were searched today in lightning-like raids growing out of a Brooklyn grand jury's investigation of a gambling ring which paid $4,000,000 a year for police protection.

The raids were conducted by the entire staff of the Brooklyn District Attorney's office under warrants signed secretly Wednesday by Kings County Judge Samuel Leibowitz. The warrants called for the arrest of the 33 policemen, including several high officers, for appearance before the grand jury.

Authorities said the policemen were singled out because of answers they gave to questionnaires regarding their financial status which all members of the department were required to fill out recently.

The raiding officers directed their search of the homes for television sets and other gifts which allegedly were passed out to policemen by a $20,000,000 horse-booking syndicate broken up last year.

Boom In London

LONDON (Reuters)—The London Stock Exchange bristled with bright features today. Industrial ordinary shares continued their recent upward surge and were joined by shipping issues.

Cunard gained 2s 9d at 45s on a dividend of 12 per cent for the year against 10 per cent. Peninsular and Oriental deferred were 6s up at 67s 6d on dividend of 16 per cent for the year against 12 1/2 per cent.

Tobacco and engineering again were in good demand.

Gains in Canadian Eagle issues reflected the company's shipping interests, and in view of the recent rises in freight rates, there was further investment support for other oil leaders.

Equal Pay Urged For Women Doing Same Work As Men

A resolution calling for equal pay for equal work was passed unanimously by members of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night when the meeting heard that some indu-tries were hiring women to replace men and were paying them lower salaries.

The matter was brought forward by Colin McIlvride, chairman of the council's unemployment committee.

He advocated that the law should require employers to provide the same rate of pay to women as men for specific jobs. He said the only province in Canada which already enforces principle was Ontario.

DENIES EVER BACKING PLAN OF MACARTHUR

TOKYO (Reuters)—Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, British Commonwealth commander in Korea, denied today he had ever supported a proposal to bomb Manchuria or expand the Korean war.

(An informant who demanded anonymity today reported the top Commonwealth military officer in Japan voiced support for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's proposal to bomb Red Chinese bases in Manchuria.)

Gen. Robertson, an Australian, said his denial referred to newspaper reports of an off-the-record press conference he held April 10, the day before President Truman fired MacArthur.

He said his remarks at that time must remain off the record "because of their obvious value to the enemy." But he strongly denied having expressed an opinion "either way" on the conduct of the Korean war.

U.S. Senate Bi-Partisan Chief Vandenberg Dies

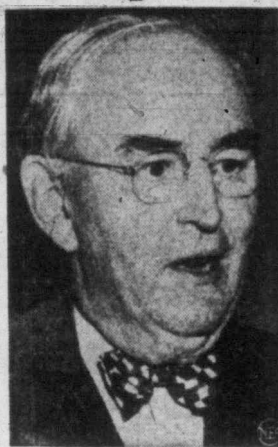

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, one of the United States most-respected statesmen, died Wednesday night. He was 67.

The Michigan Republican, a foreign-policy expert whose advice was sought by the heads of both major parties, died in his sleep after several years of illness. He had undergone several major operations in the last two years.

Vandenberg's death meant the loss of one of the founders of the United Nations and one of Congress' foremost advocates of a bi-partisan, unified foreign policy in the cold war with Russia.

It also undoubtedly meant a gain for the Democrats in the Senate. It falls to Michigan's Democratic Governor, C. Mennen Williams, to name a successor to Vandenberg, whose career spanned 23 years in Congress.

With Vandenberg's death the Democratic majority in the Senate became 49 to 46. The expected Democratic appointment will make it 50 to 46.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday from the Park Congregational Church here.

With the Senator's death was disclosed a story of his self-sacrifice in the country's interests.

Vandenberg's family disclosed that he had had a heart ailment for 25 years and that he postponed a necessary lung operation for a year in October, 1948.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

The bidding in today's hand is typical of match-point tactics. North would have let the opponents play at two spades in an ordinary bridge game, but since the hand was being played in a pair tournament he felt obliged to fight for the part score.

Perhaps East should have gone on to three spades but he was afraid that he would be doubled and set. He reasoned that his opponents might easily be in a bad contract and that it would be unwise for him to rescue them.

West opened the king of spades and continued with the jack. South ruffed and considered the dummy carefully. Apparently he was bound to lose a spade, a heart, and two diamonds, so that the contract seemed to depend on losing no trump tricks. Declarer's first impulse, therefore, was to cash the king of clubs and finesse dummy's jack. Calmer counsel, however, prevailed.

At the third trick, South crossed to the dummy with a heart and ruffed a third round of spades. He next led to dummy's remaining high heart and ruffed dummy's last spade. East's diamond discard on this trick was highly revealing.

East had raised spades with

A—Redouble. If the double had not taken place, you would have raised to two no-trump, inviting a game contract. You redouble to show your strength and to notify your partner that you are ready to take action (a penalty double), against any run-out bid that the opponents try.

only three cards in that suit. Moreover, he had doubled two no-trump. Obviously East had a smattering of high cards, and these were bound to include the ace of diamonds.

South continued by leading his remaining heart, and East won with the queen. East returned the nine of diamonds, hoping that South would let the trick ride to West's queen. As it happened, South was sure of the location of the ace of diamonds and therefore put up his king.

By this time declarer had already won six tricks, so that he needed only three trump tricks to fulfill his contract. He exited from his hand with a diamond, and East was obliged to win with the ace. Now East had to lead trumps, thus giving dummy a free finesse and the contract.

If South had drawn trumps early in the play of the hand, he would have been set two tricks. That line of play would have led to the loss of a spade, a heart, two diamonds and two trumps.

Ald. Pinfold Supports Larger Publicity Grant

Cutting the Publicity Bureau request for a grant from $27,500 to $25,000 was termed "penury-wise and pound foolish," by Ald. William Pinfold at a finance committee meeting on estimates Wednesday.

The item weathered its first stiff fight and will go to full council on estimates for decision. "I'm not belittling the work they do but on grounds of economy we simply can't afford it," said Ald. J. D. Hunter, who favored giving the bureau the same grant as last year—$25,000.

Mayor Percy George agreed: "We can't minimize their value."

"It's our biggest business," interjected Ald. Pinfold. "There is no doubt they have extra expenses."

Finance committee approved a $1,000 grant rather than the requested $2,000 for the Victoria Symphony, but at that it was $700 more than last year.

The committee felt it was in no position to grant a requested $7,500 to Chamber of Commerce for industrial development work, an suggested last year's $1,500 stand.
